40 Years of Human Rights Violations by Law Enforcement in Canada

By Robert A. Rees-Evans

Oct 16, 2025

Preface

This manuscript documents my life as a 'pigeon' — a target of ongoing surveillance, covert operations, and human rights violations by law enforcement over four decades. It is both a personal testimony and a call for justice.

[Peach Lake 2023-07-30]

Table of Contents

Preface......2
Chapter 1: The Genesis of a 'Pigeon' (1984–1988)......6
  1.1 Early Encounters with Law Enforcement......6
  1.2 The High School Keys Incident......6
  1.3 Arrest and Conviction......6
  1.4 Father's Role in the Federal Bureau of Dangerous Drugs......7
  1.5 Emerging 'Pigeon' Status at the University of Western Ontario......7
Chapter 2: Corporate Intrigues and Explicit Labeling (1988–Late 1990s)......9
  2.1 Career at 3M Canada......9
  2.2 The 'Pigeon' Label Incident with Jon Maurice......9
  2.3 Breakdown of Friendships......9
  2.4 Alleged Corporate Misconduct......10
Chapter 3: The Wired Home — Evidence of Covert Surveillance (1998–2005)......11
  3.1 Construction of the Home at 51 Cheltenham Road......11
  3.2 Suspicious Wiring Discoveries......11
  3.3 The 'Water Leak' Incident......11
  3.4 Potential Spy Cam Installation in the Guest Bathroom......11
  3.5 Suspicions Regarding Sophie LaRochelle......12
  3.6 Sale of the House and Removed Smoke Detector......12
Chapter 4: Life in Rentals — Surveillance and Stalking (2005-2020)......13
  4.1 35 Rogers Ave (2005-2013)......13
    Online Dating – Plenty of Fish......13
    Rock the Park......13
    Inna Paliy......13
    Mary Ann VandenEynden – Private Investigator......13
    London Health Sciences Centre – Information and Privacy Commissioner......14
  4.2 Etobicoke - Cement (Oct 2013 – Mar 2014)......14
  4.3 Rogers Ave - Revisited (2014-2016)......14
  4.4 Mile 0 - Victoria, BC (Oct 2016 – Oct 2017)......14
  4.5 Ontario Revisited - Laura Sirie(Mar 2018 – May 2018)......14
Chapter 5: The Malawi Connection — Escalation at 410 Allendale Road (2020–2021)......16
  5.1 Arrival of McPhyll Bandah......16

5.2 Accelerating Social Stalking 16
5.3 The Assault Incident 16
5.4 Police Refusal to Act 16
5.5 McPhyll’s Customs Documents from Malawi 17
5.6 Evidence of iPhone Hacking 17
5.7 Alleged 'Witchcraft' Connection 17
Chapter 6: Unmasking the 'Honey Pot' — Research into the Dark Web and Organized Crime (2021–present) 18
6.1 Research into the Dark Web (Freenet/Hyphanet) 18
6.2 'Honey Pot' Operations Explained 18
6.3 Connections to the Siderno Group and 'Ndrangheta Mafia 18
6.4 Connections to the Entertainment Business 18
Chapter 7: Targeted individual (2021–present) 20
7.1 Homelessness on Crown Land North of Sudbury 20
7.2 Explicit “Here We Hunt Pedophile” Message 20
7.3 Intimidating ATV Incident with Shotgun Fire 20
7.4 Stalking at the MTO Rest Stop 20
7.5 Incident of Trees Being Chain-Sawed Down 21
7.6 Thessalon ATV Circling Incident 21
Chapter 8: Law Enforcement Involvement 22
8.1 Goderich: Call-in (2021-05-16) 22
8.2 Goderich: Call-in (2021) 22
8.3 Central Huron: Call-in (2021-07-05) 22
8.4 Stratford: Call-in (2021) 22
8.5 Parry Sound: Waypoint (2021-08-08) 22
8.6 Laundromat: Assault (2021-11-10) 23
8.7 Blind River: Slow Driving Warning (2021-11-17) 23
8.8 Sudbury District: Breathing? (2022) 23
8.9 Watershed: Unpaid Fines (2022-01-25) 23
8.10 Tim Horton’s: Call-in (~2022-03-02) 23
8.11 Sudbury MR80: Slow Driving (2022-03-20) 24
8.12 Constantine Camp: Mike Jr. (2022-09) 24
8.13 Constantine Camp: Ministry of Natural Resources (2022-10-04) 24

8.14 Peach Lake: Marie 911 (2023-01-01) 24
8.15 Peach Lake: “Here We Hunt Pedophile” (2023-08-31) 24
8.16 Merritt: Random Car Stop (2024-04-06) 25
8.17 Merritt: Road Runner Motel (2024-04-10) 25
8.18 Arctic Watershed Rest Stop (2024-11-25) 25
8.19 Petawawa: Random Car Stop (2025-01-12) 25
8.20 Sault Ste. Marie: Call-in (2025-07-09) 25
Chapter 9: Family and Friends Support 26
9.1 Jack Olson: Battery (2021-05-25) 26
9.2 Heather McCort: Help with Shipping (2022-01-21) 26
9.3 Mike Rees-Evans: Help (2022-02-10) 27
9.4 Marie Carter: Call-in (2022-12-31) 27
9.5 Mike Rees-Evans: Help (2025-02-19) 28
Chapter 10: A Forty-Year Ordeal – Call for Justice 29
My Appeal 29
References 30
Appendix A: 51 Cheltenham Road – Suspicious Construction Activities 31
Appendix B: 410 Allendale Road – Encounters with McPhyll Bandah 37
Appendix C: 51 Cheltenham Road – Listing and Sale 53
Appendix D: Targeted Individual – Evidence of Stalking and Harassment 55
Appendix E: Law Enforcement - Evidence of Stalking and Harassment 64
Appendix F: Friends and Family – Call for Help 69

Chapter 1: The Genesis of a 'Pigeon' (1984–1988)

1.1 Early Encounters with Law Enforcement

My name is Rob Rees-Evans, and my life has been profoundly shaped by a series of encounters with law enforcement beginning in my teenage years. A single mistake as a high school student set off a chain of events that would follow me for four decades. Over time, I came to understand that I had been labeled a “pigeon” — a decoy, an expendable person of interest, and a tool for surveillance.

This status began in 1984, when I was just 18 years old.

1.2 The High School Keys Incident

I came into possession of a set of master keys to Sir John A. MacDonald High School in Scarborough, where I had been a student since 1979. My friends and I used the keys to steal exams and, on occasion, alter my friend’s grades. At the time, everything was paper-based, which made such tampering surprisingly easy.

It did not take long for the staff to grow suspicious. One of my teachers told me directly that they believed exams were being stolen. Despite the warning, my friends and I continued to take risks. One night, after drinking heavily, a friend and I entered the school in search of electronic scales and triple-beam balances. We were caught, arrested, and eventually convicted.

The police interrogated me, pressing hard for the identity of the person who had given me the keys. I refused to answer, fearing for my safety if I revealed the source. During questioning, I was told that the cost to rekey the school exceeded $30,000 — a huge sum in the mid-1980s. More alarming for the authorities was the possibility that hundreds of other schools might also be at risk, which would have multiplied the financial damage dramatically.

1.3 Arrest and Conviction

The conviction itself was not severe by legal standards. I served a shortened 2 month probation period, and the record was eventually pardoned. Yet the consequences went far beyond the courtroom. Law enforcement’s interest in me persisted. I became a person of interest not because of the crime itself, but because of the questions that lingered — who had provided the keys, what other activities I might have been involved in, and whether I could be pressured into revealing more.

This marked the beginning of a long and intrusive relationship with the police. My case was closed on paper, but in reality, I was never free of surveillance.

1.4 Father’s Role in the Federal Bureau of Dangerous Drugs

My father’s career may have made matters worse. He was a chief inspector for the Federal Bureau of Dangerous Drugs. His duties included assisting police in narcotics investigations, testifying as an expert witness, and overseeing the destruction of seized drugs.

The night I was arrested, I also happened to be in possession of hashish, though I was never formally charged for it. The scales we intended to steal were, admittedly, meant for weighing narcotics. Around that time, my father once mentioned casually that he had a suitcase full of narcotics in the trunk of his car, awaiting destruction. The car keys were left out, tempting me to look. I opened the trunk, saw the case, but decided against opening it. Something in me said: leave this alone.

This brush with temptation highlights the dangerous proximity between my personal life and my father’s professional world. Whether consciously or not, law enforcement must have viewed me as a valuable pawn — a young man with connections to the very heart of Canada’s drug enforcement apparatus.

1.5 Emerging 'Pigeon' Status at the University of Western Ontario

In September 1984, I began studies at the University of Western Ontario, pursuing a degree in Engineering Science. By then, my probation had been cut short, as I was deemed low risk. Yet the police presence in my life only intensified.

Throughout my four years at university, I experienced repeated, and often petty, intrusions. Officers issued questionable speeding tickets, stopped me at ride programs, and searched my vehicle without cause. The pattern was obvious — sometimes so blatant that it felt like they were mocking me. On several occasions, the smell of marijuana in my car was undeniable, but they let it slide, while seizing alcohol whenever they found it. I began to understand that I was not simply being monitored — I was being handled.

With my father’s role in narcotics enforcement, and my refusal to cooperate after the high school incident, I was clearly marked as someone useful to law enforcement, though not in any way that benefited me. I was not an informer, nor a criminal mastermind. I was, instead, a pigeon: an expendable target, a decoy, and a person they could exploit for their own operations.

Specific incidents during this time included:

- Sharon Lake: While camping for the day at the lake with my friend Shane Berkingren, police arrived and searched my vehicle, even my shoes, which held a “fiver” of hash oil. They somehow impossibly missed the oil but confiscated our beer. When I returned home later that day, the police were sitting outside my house.
- Western Road - Odometer Incident: My car had two cables — one for the odometer and one for the tachometer. I had disconnected the odometer and made a cheat sheet for the gears and tachometer, which I placed on the dash. Before taking the car in for a tire alignment, I reconnected the odometer. Within days, I was pulled over for speeding — a completely false charge. The officer shone his flashlight directly at the odometer and asked if it was working.

- Grand Bend: I was jailed overnight after trying to de-escalate a situation my friend Mike Anger was having with police. When he ran away, they took me instead.

Chapter 2: Corporate Intrigues and Explicit Labeling (1988–Late 1990s)

2.1 Career at 3M Canada

In 1988, I graduated from the University of Western Ontario with a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering. Not long after, a neighbor encouraged me to apply for a position at 3M Canada in London, Ontario. I got the job quickly and began what would become a pivotal period in both my career and personal life.

At 3M, I developed close friendships with colleagues and their friends, including Leonard Lem, Jon Maurice, Jack Olson, and Peter Sbrizi. Together, we built a tight-knit social circle, spending countless evenings golfing, drinking, playing video games, and smoking marijuana. For a time, life felt relatively normal, free from the constant shadow of law enforcement that had hung over me during university.

Yet even during these years of camaraderie, the sense of surveillance never fully disappeared. There were moments — traffic stops, subtle warnings, unexplained intrusions — that reminded me I was still on law enforcement’s radar.

2.2 The 'Pigeon' Label Incident with Jon Maurice

One night in the early 1990s, after the bars had closed, I was back at Jon Maurice’s apartment with friends, as we often did. The phone rang. I overheard Jon talking before he suddenly handed the receiver to me. On the line was a friend of his, a man I barely knew who owned an M&M Meat Shop in Toronto.

The voice on the other end said just three words: “You’re a pigeon.”

I asked what he meant. He repeated it and told me to give the phone back to Jon. The call was brief, but its impact was enormous. For the first time, someone had used the word directly to describe me. The label that law enforcement had applied behind closed doors was now out in the open.

2.3 Breakdown of Friendships

The very next day, Jon’s behavior toward me shifted dramatically. He accused me of stealing his television remote — a petty, baseless claim that quickly escalated into hostility. From that point onward, my friendships began to unravel. Everyone except Jack Olson drifted away from me, seemingly without explanation.

What began as a teenage mistake had now grown into a defining identity, shaping how others viewed and treated me. The 'pigeon' label had entered the open, and with it came isolation and betrayal.

2.4 Alleged Corporate Misconduct

In 1999, while working at 3M, I learned disturbing information from a coworker, Juliette Medeiros. She confided that senior executive — Vice President Tony Marranca and his close associate, Marcello Devincenzo — were allegedly diverting company resources into a private business venture in medical imaging. Two other employees, Peter Vanderweg and Joe Sue-Tang, were also implicated.

I had grown increasingly dissatisfied with my role at 3M and had previously asked to be 'packaged out' during company reorganizations. My requests were always denied. Now, with knowledge of potential misconduct, I saw an opportunity. I met directly with Marranca, explained my position, and negotiated a separation package. He agreed immediately.

Soon after, my manager, Martin Osso, attempted to pry information from me about what I had told Marranca. I refused to disclose anything. The matter ended quickly and quietly. A few weeks later, I started a new job at JMP Engineering in London.

Chapter 3: The Wired Home — Evidence of Covert Surveillance (1998–2005)

3.1 Construction of the Home at 51 Cheltenham Road

In 1998, while working on a new 3M facility in Brockville, I met Sophie LaRochelle. Our relationship developed quickly, and by 2000 we decided to settle down together. We designed and built a home at 51 Cheltenham Road in London, Ontario, with Hazelden Homes as the builder.

As an engineer, I documented the construction process meticulously. I took photographs of framing, wiring, plumbing, and heating ducts, intending to have a detailed record of the house’s infrastructure. At the time, I thought of it as a practical step for future maintenance. I could not have known that these photos would later take on a much darker significance.

3.2 Suspicious Wiring Discoveries

In recent years, after receiving a tip, I revisited those old photographs and noticed troubling details. In one image of the guest bathroom, I saw extra wiring staples and excess cable positioned in ways that suggested preparation for hidden equipment. The placement did not align with normal construction practices.

The discovery forced me to reconsider moments from the construction phase that had seemed odd at the time.

3.3 The 'Water Leak' Incident

On February 9, 2001, Sophie and I received the keys to the house. During the final walkthrough with the site superintendent, Mike, we noticed a small 'water leak' outside the guest bathroom. Mike assured us he would have a plumber investigate immediately.

When we returned the next day, the drywall had been cut open and patched, but the location of the cut didn’t line up with any actual plumbing fixtures. The hole was higher than the faucet and in a spot with no water connections at all. It puzzled me, but I set the thought aside at the time.

Only years later, when I reviewed my construction photos, did the pieces begin to connect. The patched drywall, combined with the unusual wiring, suggested that something had been installed behind the wall — not plumbing, but potentially surveillance equipment.

3.4 Potential Spy Cam Installation in the Guest Bathroom

The guest bathroom in our home was rarely used. Sophie occasionally washed a cat or dog in the tub but never once showered or bathed there, despite it being fully functional. When I asked her about it, she dismissed my questions by saying she preferred showers and therefore used only the en-suite bathroom.

When her parents visited, they always draped a large towel over the transparent shower bar. The towel remained soaked throughout their stay — not like a towel hung after normal use, but as if it had been deliberately saturated.

At the time, I found these behaviors odd but did not challenge them. In hindsight, they now appear to fit a larger pattern: a bathroom deliberately avoided, concealed from visitors, and potentially altered during construction in ways consistent with surveillance.

3.5 Suspicions Regarding Sophie LaRochelle

My relationship with Sophie began to fracture in 2005. I was becoming ill at the time and had privately decided I wanted to sell the house, though I did not confide in her that I was urinating blood. She immediately offered to buy my share and end things amicably. The speed and ease of the separation felt unusual, but I accepted it.

There were other signs of deception. On one occasion, Sophie introduced me to a friend I had never heard of before — a police officer from her university days. Throughout that dinner, Sophie's voice betrayed her nerves; she spoke in a high-pitched, strained tone she seemed unable to control.

During the meal, her friend and I discussed a break-in that had recently occurred at my parents' condominium while they were wintering in Florida. Despite the presence of an alarm system, he remarked that alarms are not a deterrent — a statement I found odd coming from a law enforcement officer. The entire evening left me with the inescapable impression that something was being concealed.

3.6 Sale of the House and Removed Smoke Detector

In May 2021, immediately following the Malawi connection (see Chapter 5), Sophie sold the house. To me, this appeared to be more than a financial decision. It felt like a preemptive move — one designed to prevent me from returning to the property, questioning her, or inspecting the suspicious bathroom further.

Later, while reviewing photos on a real estate website, I noticed that a newly renovated basement bedroom no longer had a smoke detector. That detector had been on the same circuit as the bathroom wiring. Such a setup would have been ideal for transmitting surveillance signals over the home's electrical wiring — a known technique used in video monitoring systems.

Chapter 4: Life in Rentals — Surveillance and Stalking (2005-2020)

4.1 35 Rogers Ave (2005-2013)

After Cheltenham, I rented an upstairs apartment from Chico and Jen Martin. I had just undergone bladder replacement surgery. They were very kind; they completely renovated the shower and bathtub and installed an air conditioner in my room while I was recovering.

Online Dating – Plenty of Fish

During these years, I made several attempts at online dating. It was difficult — I was chronically ill from surgery complications and reluctant to leave the house. Although there was no shortage of women interested in me, I rarely dated. From time to time I met some; eventually I developed a sense that many people on the sites already knew who I was. I kept it to myself, thinking perhaps people talk, and I might use it to my advantage. It also seemed some were becoming pushy when I wouldn't meet or I cancelled dates due to sickness.

One memorable instance was when the daughter of Canadian rock band April Wine contacted me and became frustrated because I wouldn't meet her.

Rock the Park

The nearby park hosted four-day concerts every year, and the music carried clearly to my house. I would usually walk around the park during these events.

In 2009, I sat on a hill outside the concert fencing with a woman I had just met. Police approached and told us we were illegally watching the concert, even though we were on public land and hundreds of others were gathered outside the perimeter. They threatened to arrest us, so I chose to leave.

Immediately afterward, another woman appeared and offered me a free ticket to the concert. I declined, uninterested in going inside. The entire situation felt staged — it simply didn't add up.

Inna Paliy

In 2010 I began dating a Ukrainian woman, Inna Paliy, after she messaged me on Plenty of Fish. We dated for two years but I became frustrated because it seemed she had involved friends to stalk me online. I broke off the relationship because she wouldn't admit to anything. Eventually she told me she had done "everything," though I never pressed her on what that meant.

At the same time I was also concerned about her ex-husband allegedly driving drunk with her 12-year-old daughter. I wanted to contact him to obtain the Children's Lawyer name, since the couple was in a custody battle. Eventually I obtained the name and reported their actions to the lawyer.

Mary Ann VandenEynden – Private Investigator

Part of the stalking I attributed to Inna also appeared to involve Mary Ann. While I was reconsidering the relationship with Inna, Mary Ann entered my Facebook scene and engaged me in frequent conversations. She said she was living with her husband but that they were divorcing. Everything I shared with her seemed to make its way back to Inna.

Later on, after ending the ordeal with Inna, I was vacationing in Florida for the winter. We communicated through a dating app with video chat and through Facebook. Mary Ann told me she was a private investigator seeking to join the police force.

At the time, it was completely obvious to me that the two were connected somehow. In hindsight, however, I may have been mistaken about the exact nature of that connection — she may not have been a "friend of a friend" after all.

London Health Sciences Centre – Information and Privacy Commissioner

In May 2012, I contacted the London Health Sciences Centre (LHSC) and authorized an audit of my patient records. I was subsequently informed that my medical records had been inappropriately accessed on January 4, 2011, in the Pulmonary Functions Lab at the Victoria site.

Despite initially promising to do so, LHSC refused to provide me with the name of the staff member responsible for the breach. I filed a complaint with the Information and Privacy Commissioner, but nothing came of it. It became clear to me at that point that my appointment schedule had been visible to my stalkers.

4.2 Etobicoke - Cement (Oct 2013 – Mar 2014)

I decided to move away from London and rented an apartment at 2085 Islington Avenue in Etobicoke. The experience was short-lived: during construction at the condominium, my car was cemented in, and I ultimately decided to return to London.

4.3 Rogers Ave - Revisited (2014-2016)

I returned to London, and within a few months, my old apartment on Rogers Avenue conveniently became available for rent again.

4.4 Mile 0 - Victoria, BC (Oct 2016 – Oct 2017)

I met Michelle Westlake on an online music dating site called Tastebuds. We became online friends, and eventually I decided that since my life in London wasn't working out, I would move to British Columbia and share an apartment with her. In the meantime we chatted online often.

Shortly after we watched the Tragically Hip's final concert together online on August 20, 2016 (while I was still in London), a comment appeared on her Tastebuds account that read: "Pigeon Camera."

4.5 Ontario Revisited - Laura Sirie(Mar 2018 – May 2018)

By this point, I had become aware that I carried a certain notoriety or "celebrity status" among women online. While I was still considered a decent prospect, my declining work potential meant my opportunities were changing.

My next rental, back in Ontario was owned by a nurse who had previously worked as a stripper and struggled with addiction. One day, after I rejected her advances, she cut the power to the house, barged into my room, and stood over me while I was asleep and unclothed. She yelled accusations, convinced that her ex-husband had sent me to spy on her.

I was forced to call the police, meanwhile the neighbors engaged in street theatre — taking pictures of me and my car, slamming their door on me when I asked for help, while Laura ran around the front yard uncontrollably. When the police finally arrived, they restored the power but did little else. I was effectively forced into a motel.

While I stayed there, she sent me a text message that would later prove to be prophetic. The police maintained they could not act, although she had a four-year-old child and in need of help.

Chapter 5: The Malawi Connection — Escalation at 410 Allendale Road (2020–2021)

5.1 Arrival of McPhyll Bandah

As part of the continued destruction of my life by police, combined with worsening health and lack of work, I was forced into cheaper rentals. I eventually moved into a common residence in Cambridge, Ontario, where I met McPhyll Bandah, from Malawi.

I lived at 410 Allendale Road from April 19, 2020, to April 30, 2021. On January 26, 2021, landlord Maynard Lanting told me and another tenant, Ian, that he planned to sell the property and asked us to vacate by April 30 in exchange for reduced rent. Yet, only a few days later, on January 30, 2021, he moved McPhyll into the room beside mine. McPhyll himself told me he had not been informed he would have to move. Something didn't add up.

5.2 Accelerating Social Stalking

After a few weeks of McPhyll living next to me, social stalking on dating sites accelerated. Someone told me my roommate was gay — a strange, unsolicited comment. Around the same time, the LED bulbs in the bathroom were replaced despite the old ones still working, and the discarded bulbs were left in the trash.

In the garden, rock formations appeared and the grass had been burned in odd patterns that changed over time. I photographed them because they seemed to depict images of interest. On one occasion, McPhyll pointed an inside light directly onto the formations, which was inexplicable. At that point, I began documenting my stay systematically.

5.3 The Assault Incident

On April 15, 2021, while I was taking pictures inside, McPhyll was in the kitchen. Believing I had photographed him, he became aggressive, chased me into my room, and forced the door open as I tried to hold it shut.

He assaulted me. I managed to take a photograph immediately after, showing him standing with his hands at his sides, as if posing innocently.

He then asked if I knew where he was from and he said: 'I'm from Africa, I'm protected.' I interpreted this as a possible reference to witchcraft. He proceeded to call the landlord, Maynard, and opened the conversation with "our friend is having problems". Obviously all these statements had greater meaning.

5.4 Police Refusal to Act

I called 911 to report the assault. Despite the damage to the door and my account, the police refused to act, telling me I needed a video rather than photographs.

I pleaded with the landlord for help, but he did nothing to move the assailant out.

5.5 McPhyll’s Customs Documents from Malawi

On April 18, 2021, McPhyll called the police on me after I made things noisy in the house. By the end of that encounter, the police removed him quickly. He left garbage behind, and in it I found a customs document showing his origins in Malawi and a transaction to the USA on May 15, 2019.

I also found a receipt for an iPhone 8, which he had shipped back to Lilongwe, Malawi, on March 6, 2020, while living in London.

5.6 Evidence of iPhone Hacking

Coincidentally, I had bought my own iPhone 8 on November 15, 2019, in Cambridge. When I inspected it, I found a fingerprint ID registered even though I had never used that feature. It was obvious my phone had been hacked.

I also found what looked like a hidden device facing my computer. Alone in the house, I refused to leave until I searched thoroughly.

On two separate occasions while showering, I heard the access door to upstairs open and close. On the second attempt, I had boarded it shut, and whoever was trying to get in could not. I believed someone was attempting to retrieve the evidence I had found.

5.7 Alleged 'Witchcraft' Connection

I left the house on April 27, 2021, leaving it in disrepair. The landlord never pursued damages, though he coincidentally showed up at the mailbox a few days later. I believe no one wanted me in court, explaining the conditions I had endured.

In my research into Malawi, I learned that belief in witchcraft is widespread. Surveys show that 74% of Malawians strongly believe in its existence, often associating it with killing, illness, or misfortune. MANEPO reported that 72 elderly people were killed within two years over witchcraft accusations. (HRW 2024; Afrobarometer)

In conversations online, Africans told me that even law enforcement uses witchcraft and that some claim the ability to read minds.

In Canada, meanwhile, the only witchcraft prohibition was repealed in 2018, just before McPhyll left Malawi. (Cambridge Journal of Law & Society)

Against this backdrop, McPhyll’s words — 'I’m from Africa, I’m protected' — took on chilling significance.

Chapter 6: Unmasking the 'Honey Pot' — Research into the Dark Web and Organized Crime (2021–present)

6.1 Research into the Dark Web (Freenet/Hyphanet)

The dark web traces back to 2000 with the release of Freenet, the thesis project of University of Edinburgh student Ian Clarke. His goal was to create a “Distributed Decentralized Information Storage and Retrieval System” — a platform for anonymous communication and file sharing. This groundwork later became the foundation for the Tor Project, released in 2002.

It was through Freenet that I learned much about how the dark web operates. It was also where I was first informed about the involvement of the Italian mafia. I came to understand how prevalent child pornography was, and how difficult it is for perpetrators to be caught using conventional wiretapping and surveillance techniques.

6.2 'Honey Pot' Operations Explained

A honey pot is, at its core, a trap. In law enforcement, it can be used as a tool to catch suspects. In criminal contexts, it might take the form of a false front or setup. In both cases, it lures in a target, which is then studied or incriminated.

When used properly, a honey pot can be a legitimate investigative tool. When abused, however, it becomes a form of entrapment. By this stage of my life, I had come to understand how frequently such tactics appeared to be entangled with me.

6.3 Connections to the Siderno Group and 'Ndrangheta Mafia

While studying organized crime in Ontario, I encountered reports of the Siderno Group, an extension of the Calabrian ’Ndrangheta mafia. Their operations included drug trafficking, money laundering, and infiltration of legitimate businesses. There are 10 'Ndrangheta clans in Ontario, based in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and London.

During this time, I required a witness signature for legal matters related to my departure from 3M. I informed Sophie of the details of my meeting with Italian Vice President Marranca. Looking back now, it seems plausible that law enforcement may have worked with informants and construction personnel during the building of our home. To me, this remains one of only a few explanations for the deep and unusual intrusions into my life.

6.4 Connections to the Entertainment Business

I have not yet fully comprehended the story of the entertainment business or the reasons I believe extortion was involved. What I can say is that one song in particular stood out to me. Its lyrics seemed to slur Cheltenham instead of Shout it Out when I heard it on the radio— the street where we built our house — and carried themes that mirrored my lived experiences including my initials.

The track was released the same year the spy camera was installed. It contains forward lyrics that, when reversed, reveal additional phrases — a technique known as backmasking. To me, the timing and content felt too pointed to ignore.

Below are some of the more significant lyric pairs:

Forward Lyric	Reverse Lyric
The crowd chooses not to notice	So they do it so it's not suspicious
Nameless species turn their heads	In reverse this piece
They try to understand what we are hunting on	All they want, sleep so quiet, it's the law, they scammed it
Cowards believe me I'm in this	Words have to fill the terminal
Shout it out, shout it out	I hate this, I hate this
They're giving me away	Here where you stand naked
Tearing music from my heart	Uh-uh-uh I will sin save Derek
Screaming this is who we are	I hate all this, they save the news
Keep on running till tomorrow with a distant yesterday	I hate this, take it in, there's nothing for run, take it off for nothing
And all those people are too afraid of change	Here's the news, I love you for money
Run a, run a, run away, yeah	Hate hymn with RARA'M

I created videos highlighting these phrases because they were so clear to me. I do not present this as proof of direct involvement by artists, but rather as another piece of a much larger pattern. In my view, law enforcement agencies may have had reasons to shield those involved by discrediting or silencing me.

Chapter 7: Targeted individual (2021–present)

7.1 Homelessness on Crown Land North of Sudbury

After leaving 410 Allendale Road, I stayed in motels for a period of time, but the public stalking escalated. Eventually, I found myself living on Crown Land between Sudbury and Timmins, believing I could escape police abuse, false reports, and constant harassment from members of the public.

What I now recognize as “street theater” — tactics used by stalkers to intimidate “targeted individuals” — became a regular part of my daily life.

7.2 Explicit “Here We Hunt Pedophile” Message

In September 2023, the stalking culminated in an incident at Peach Lake. I had been camping at a secluded spot with an outhouse nearby that no one else used. Located at the end of an old logging road with no lake access, the site was unpopular, and I had it to myself for the entire summer.

There was one camper trailer parked in the area, and from time to time other campers arrived from nearby lakes on ATVs to get supplies. One day in September, after driving 120 kilometers into town for provisions, I returned to find a message written on the inside door of the outhouse: “Here we Hunt Pedophile so Fuck off”

No one else had used that spot all summer, so the message was clearly meant for me. I am certainly not a pedophile, and the words were obviously intended as a threat. In the broader context of my experiences, I interpreted it as another stage in the intimidation campaign — a tactic resembling the “honey pot” operations sometimes used by law enforcement to target suspects.

7.3 Intimidating ATV Incident with Shotgun Fire

A few weeks later, while I was resting in my car, two ATVs pulled up and began circling my vehicle. Then they fired several shotgun rounds into the air before speeding off.

I called 911, and officers eventually arrived from Timmins. I knew it was largely a waste of time to report anything, since nothing would be done. Before they left, I had to insist that they take a copy of the evidence — that’s how little they seemed to care.

7.4 Stalking at the MTO Rest Stop

A few days later, I went to the nearest and only restroom available to me — an MTO inspection/rest stop facility located at Hwy #144 and Hwy #560. It is open 24/7, 365 days a year.

On this occasion, the outside door was locked with a sign reading “Out of Order.” The employees at the nearby Watershed gas station, who manage the MTO facility, had locked me out several times before, so it wasn’t new. When this happens, I sometimes sit there all night until morning when they reopen it. I am usually in desperate need of water, which I get from the taps.

That night, I wanted to document that the facility was actually functioning, so I recorded a video to show there was no legitimate reason to keep the doors locked other than to harass or stalk me. Additionally, another vehicle remained parked in the lot all night from about 10 p.m. The driver never got out — never walked a dog, smoked, or used the washroom — and finally left sometime between 3–5 a.m.

At around 8 a.m., the cleaning man arrived as expected, removed the “Out of Order” sign, unlocked the door, and began his routine. Clearly, the facilities had never been out of order. I cleaned myself up and refilled my water bottles from the tap — my only source of fresh water.

7.5 Incident of Trees Being Chain-Sawed Down

When I returned to the campsite, I found that at least a dozen trees had been chain-sawed down during the night, blocking the entrance road to the campsite.

It became obvious why the bathroom door had been locked and why someone had sat there all night keeping an eye on me. I called 911, and the same officers I had spoken to days earlier arrived.

I asked if they would retrieve the video footage from the MTO parking lot, which has three cameras — one at each entrance and exit, and one on the washroom facility. With that footage, they could have obtained the plate number of one of the stalkers and watched the attendant’s actions. Instead, they said they didn’t know if it was possible.

They also said they were going to “hand it over” to the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) since the cutting of trees is illegal. When I asked about the illegal washroom closure and stalking, they said they would talk to the people at the facility and get back to me. That was the last I heard of it.

7.6 Thessalon ATV Circling Incident

On June 6, 2025, I experienced another ATV circling incident, this time in Thessalon. Unlike the earlier encounter, there were no gunshots, but the behavior was clearly intended to intimidate.

Chapter 8: Law Enforcement Involvement

This chapter documents specific encounters with law enforcement between 2021 and 2025, presented as a chronological log. It highlights the absurd number of false call-ins and illegal activities used to justify police attention and harassment towards a targeted individual (TI).

8.1 Goderich: Call-in (2021-05-16)

- Location: Black's Point Beach
- Officer: OPP L. Kelly (#12471)
- Details: A fake call-in reported a "suspicious vehicle" while I was parked at the beach. The officer ultimately tried to insinuate I needed a crisis center.

8.2 Goderich: Call-in (2021)

- Location: Black's Point Beach
- Details: A false call-in allegedly made by snow-plough operators requested removal of a vehicle—even though there was no snow on the ground or in the forecast.

8.3 Central Huron: Call-in (2021-07-05)

- Charge: Careless driving
- Officer: OPP J. Kyle (#15675)
- Offence #: 1307603X
- Details: A fabricated call-in led to a false "careless-driving" ticket.

8.4 Stratford: Call-in (2021)

- Accusation: "Fingered someone"
- Details: A false call-in was made with the accusation that I had "fingered someone." Even if true, this is not a criminal act, making the entire report absurd and illegitimate.

8.5 Parry Sound: Waypoint (2021-08-08)

- Officer: OPP C. Logue
- Details: I was pulled over for allegedly swerving while driving. During the stop, officers noticed that my leg was red and appeared infected. Without my consent, they called an ambulance and forced me to go to the hospital.

  Once admitted, hospital staff decided I should be committed to a psychiatric facility, despite my issue being purely physical. I spent 3 days in hospital and 3 more at Waypoint psychiatric. At Waypoint, they would not provide the medical supplies I required for self- catheterization. By this time, I had begun to speak openly about the harassment I was experiencing, and I believe that disclosure influenced their decision to treat me as mentally ill rather than as an injured patient.

During my detention, I had no control over my personal belongings or electronic devices. After my release, I discovered evidence of tampering, including what appeared to be a swapped phone battery — one that had been dead for a long time before my detention but suddenly worked again afterward.

8.6 Laundromat: Assault (2021-11-10)

- Evidence: Video
- Officer: OPP M. Szusz
- Details: While at a laundromat, I was assaulted by an attendant I believe to be part of the organized harassment network. After the incident, the attendant called the police on me. When officers arrived, one initially appeared sympathetic, remarking that the situation seemed absurd. However, as soon as I began recording, they demanded that I stop filming. It is not illegal to record video in a public place, especially during an active police investigation, but I stopped recording to avoid escalation.

8.7 Blind River: Slow Driving Warning (2021-11-17)

- Evidence: Video and photos of Hwy #17 West conditions
- Officer: OPP J. Cambridge (#12756)
- Details: I was pulled over and warned for “slow driving” while travelling uphill on a two-lane bypass in the right-hand lane, allowing cars and trucks to pass. Conditions included light drizzle and posted deer-crossing warnings that justified a reduced speed. My video and photos clearly show the traffic, weather and road conditions at the time.

8.8 Sudbury District: Breathing? (2022)

- Location: Hwy #144
- Details: After pulling off the highway onto Crown Land to sleep, I was woken after midnight by two officers knocking on my car window to see if I was “breathing.” No citation or official report followed

8.9 Watershed: Unpaid Fines (2022-01-25)

- Location: Hwy #144 & Hwy #560, MTO parking lot
- Officer: OPP G. MacGregor (#11793)
- Occurrence #: E220083841
- Details: The officer sat in the parking lot near me for hours without taking any visible action. When I finally drove to use the washroom, he approached and claimed to be investigating unpaid fines. No ticket was issued.

8.10 Tim Horton’s: Call-in (~2022-03-02)

- Location: Hwy #144 in Dowling
- Evidence: Kal Tire receipt
- Details: A false call-in reported me for “dangerous driving.” In reality, I was driving slowly because I had a temporary spare tire installed after a flat. The receipt from Kal Tire confirms the repair.

8.11 Sudbury MR80: Slow Driving (2022-03-20)

- Charge: Fail to produce insurance card
- Officer: Sudbury Police A. Zelionka (#98703)
- Offence #: 1114651F
- Quote: “Posted limit is a minimum.”
- Details: Late on a Sunday night, I was driving cautiously on a pothole-ridden road when I was pulled over. The officers first cited my slow driving as the reason but quickly shifted to my insurance, which had unknowingly expired. With automatic license-plate recognition, they already knew this before the stop. They claimed they could not verify insurance after hours—an excuse that was clearly untrue. Their hostility and shifting explanations made it obvious the stop was targeted harassment.

8.12 Constantine Camp: Mike Jr. (2022-09)

- Officer: OPP G. MacGregor (#11793)
- Details: The same officer from incident 8.9 appeared at the Constantine Camp. I had befriended Mark Constantine and his brother Mike Sr. and they told me I could use their camp, no one else was there. MacGregor claimed he was there to meet with Mike Jr. He then returned with Mark’s father, Gabe Constantine, on the phone to ‘check’ me out. Weeks later, when Mike Jr. visited camp, he told me had never arranged any meeting with police at that time. The encounter appeared staged and served no legitimate purpose.

8.13 Constantine Camp: Ministry of Natural Resources (2022-10-04)

- Officer: Conservation Officer Dave LaLonde (#684)
- Evidence: Audio
- Details: A false call-in triggered an investigation into alleged illegal hunting. During questioning I had no relevant information, yet the officers persisted and used physical force in an attempt to intimidate me into talking.

8.14 Peach Lake: Marie 911 (2023-01-01)

- Evidence: Text messages
- Details: Family involvement in harassment led to the OPP locating me deep in the bush. Officers knocked on my car window while I was asleep. The call-in appeared coordinated rather than any legitimate concern to help.

8.15 Peach Lake: “Here We Hunt Pedophile” (2023-08-31)

- Officer: Timmins District McGaghran and Pablo
- Reference: See Chapter 7
- Details: Graffiti reading “Here we hunt pedophile” was discovered near my camp area. Officers had to be told to collect the evidence despite its direct threat.

8.16 Merritt: Random Car Stop (2024-04-06)

- Charge: Fail to change address
- Officer: RCMP Southeast District Julyan (#165239)
- Evidence: Ticket and Video
- Details: After spending the winter in British Columbia, I was staying in Merritt at The Road Runner Motel. One evening, as I was leaving the motel parking lot, I noticed a police cruiser pass by on the main road. I paused at the exit to let it go by and then pulled out moments later. The cruiser, which had already driven past, pulled over, waited for me to pass, then re-entered traffic and stopped me.

  The officer stated that it was a “random car stop,” which is illegal under Canadian law. He then told me that I was required to relocate and change my address to British Columbia, despite the fact that I was only visiting temporarily and remained a resident of Ontario. I was issued a ticket for failing to do so.

  A few days later, I was unexpectedly forced to leave the motel, which I believe was connected to this incident.

8.17 Merritt: Road Runner Motel (2024-04-10)

- Evidence: Video
- Agency: RCMP
- Details: I was forced to leave the motel unexpectedly, with no legitimate reason provided.

8.18 Arctic Watershed Rest Stop (2024-11-25)

- Officer: OPP Sgt. Esterbrooks
- Incident #: E241565664
- Evidence: Audio complaint
- Details: Harassed while sleeping at a roadside rest stop on Hwy #144, just north of Hwy #560.

8.19 Petawawa: Random Car Stop (2025-01-12)

- Officer: OPP Juch
- Evidence: Video
- Details: Subjected to an illegal random car stop.

8.20 Sault Ste. Marie: Call-in (2025-07-09)

- Agency: OPP
- Evidence: Video
- Details: Fake Call-in on Crown Land

Chapter 9: Family and Friends Support

Various family members and friends have become involved in my circumstances in different ways. Some offered support, while others became entangled in events that added further complications. This chapter documents those interactions.

9.1 Jack Olson: Battery (2021-05-25)

- Location: Springbank Park
- Evidence: Text
- Details: After the events involving McPhyll Bandah, I was homeless and living in my car, travelling between locations. While in London, Ontario, my car battery died at Springbank Park. In an effort to get help, I called my old friend Jack Olson, whom I had not seen or spoken with in a long time.

  Jack agreed to meet me at the park. When he arrived, his own car was running normally, and I had my jumper cables ready. However, despite being in a position to help, Jack refused to give my car a jump-start. He stated that he "couldn't" or "wouldn't," without providing any clear reason.

  After leaving, Jack sent me a text message telling me to go to a crisis centre. The interaction struck me as bizarre and out of character for a long-time friend — especially since he had driven out to meet me but then refused a simple and obvious request for help.

9.2 Heather McCort: Help with Shipping (2022-01-21)

- Location: Arthur, ON
- Evidence: Email and text exchanges regarding shipment of medical supplies
- Details: Following bladder surgery, I required ongoing use of Foley catheters. Because I had no stable address at that time, I had nowhere to receive the specific supplies, which could only be acquired online. My father had become unreliable and disruptive, so I could not depend on him.

  I turned instead to my cousin Heather McCort, who had always presented herself as welcoming and supportive, often saying that I could stay at her home anytime. In January 2022, I emailed her to explain my situation and asked if she would receive the shipments of medical supplies on my behalf.

  Heather reluctantly agreed. She first suggested having the packages sent to my father's house, but I explained this was not possible. The supplies were arriving in multiple shipments — four or five separate deliveries

  When the first shipment arrived, Heather met me at her driveway but refused to let me into her home, citing COVID precautions. It was February, and I was left outside in the cold to collect the packages. As more shipments followed, she continued to avoid letting me near her home. On one occasion she said she was unavailable because her husband Gary's friends were visiting, even though she had previously cited COVID as the reason for not inviting me in.

The inconsistency between her words and actions, and her sudden discomfort around me, raised questions about whether outside influences were affecting her behavior.

9.3 Mike Rees-Evans: Help (2022-02-10)

- Visit: "Police must have a good reason to do what they are doing."
- Details: After my mother passed away in November 2001, my cousin Marie Carter sent me a text message informing me of her death. In the aftermath, I exchanged several emails and texts with Marie, requesting the email addresses of my other cousins because I had never maintained a complete list.

  Eventually I went to visit my Father. During that visit, I tried to explain my circumstances and asked for help. His response was abrupt and dismissive. He told me to "Stop talking about it" and said, "The police must have a good reason to do what they are doing."

  This interaction confirmed for me that my father was aware of the situation but unwilling to intervene or support me.

9.4 Marie Carter: Call-in (2022-12-31)

- Incident: 911 Harassment
- Evidence: Text
- Details: On December 31, 2022, I received an unsolicited text message from my cousin Marie Carter, who had not been in touch for some time. I responded a few days later, asking who it was. She identified herself and said she was reaching out to offer help if I needed it.

  I told her that I did need help, and at first the conversation seemed genuine. However, the tone quickly shifted, and she became argumentative and dismissive. The exchange ended abruptly and left me unsettled.

  The next day, police arrived and located me in a remote wooded area, knocking on my car window and attempting to engage with me. They explained that Marie had called 911, claiming concern for my wellbeing. Given the ongoing pattern of staged encounters and "call-ins," I viewed this as another episode of street theater rather than a legitimate welfare check.

9.5 Mike Rees-Evans: Help (2025-02-19)

- Evidence: Recent email
- Details: My last contact with my father occurred in February 2025. At the time, I was struggling with issues related to my income-tax return. The government had denied several of my claims—a situation that was not unusual, as my government cards and account settings had repeatedly been altered or reset without my authorization. Each time, I was forced to go through the process of correcting them, which had become a recurring form of obstruction.

  During this period, my tax cases were under review, and I was informed that it would take several months before any refund or financial relief would be issued. Facing cold winter conditions with little money and nowhere permanent to stay, I sent my father a simple email explaining the situation and asking if he had received any mail for me.

  His response was brief: he said he had not received anything. There was no follow-up, no offer of help, and no concern expressed for my wellbeing. That single exchange marked the end of our contact.

Chapter 10: A Forty-Year Ordeal – Call for Justice

From 1984 to the present, my life has been defined by surveillance, harassment, and systemic abuse of power. What began as a single teenage mistake evolved into a lifelong campaign where I was branded a "pigeon" — expendable, exploitable, and never allowed to live free of intrusion.

The chapters of this book document four decades of escalating tactics:

- Targeted surveillance — from suspicious wiring and possible covert cameras in my own home, to online taunts such as "Pigeon Camera."
- Entrapment and harassment — repeated "honey pot" operations, false call-ins, and fabricated charges designed to discredit me.
- Physical intimidation — break-ins, staged assaults, ATV circling with gunfire, and deliberate property sabotage such as cement poured over my vehicle.
- Social and familial manipulation — friends and relatives co-opted into street theatre, 911 call-ins, or passive acceptance of events. Even children were used to echo private information back to me.
- Institutional complicity — police, landlords, health institutions, and law enforcement agencies repeatedly refused to investigate or act, while ensuring I remained isolated and discredited.

The appendices provide structured evidence: photographs, documents, messages, tickets, and logs — each tied to the incidents described in the chapters. They are not speculation, but a tangible record of the harassment I endured.

Today, I live with the consequences of this forty-year ordeal: unstable housing, debt, deteriorating health, and the lasting psychological toll of systemic targeting. Yet this testament is not only a record of suffering — it is a demand for truth.

My Appeal

I call upon whistleblowers, independent investigators, and human rights advocates to examine this evidence in full. I ask law enforcement and government agencies to be held accountable for their role — whether active or complicit — in these abuses.

My story is not only personal. It is a warning. If this can happen to one person, quietly and persistently for four decades, it can happen to anyone. Silence enables abuse; transparency and accountability is the only path to justice.

References

1. Wikipedia, Hyphanet.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hyphanet

2. Wikipedia, Siderno_Group.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Siderno_Group

3. Wikipedia ,'Ndrangheta.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/'Ndrangheta

4. Human Rights Watch, World report 2024 Malawi

https://www.hrw.org/world-report/2024/country-chapters/malawi

5. Afrobarometer, Most Malawians believe in the existence of witchcraft https://www.afrobarometer.org/articles/most-malawians-believe-in-the-existence-of-witchcraft-and-support-criminalising-it/

6. Cambridge University Press, Canadian witchcraft provision

https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/canadian-journal-of-law-and-society-la-revue-canadienne-droit-et-societe/article/bad-religion-and-bad-business-the-history-of-the-canadian-witchcraft-provision/A6BDF56A3DDF40E21F986705458F5A06

7. University of Chicago Law Review, Honeypot stings

https://cjil.uchicago.edu/print-archive/honeypot-stings-back-entrapment-age-cybercrime-and-proposed-pathway-forward

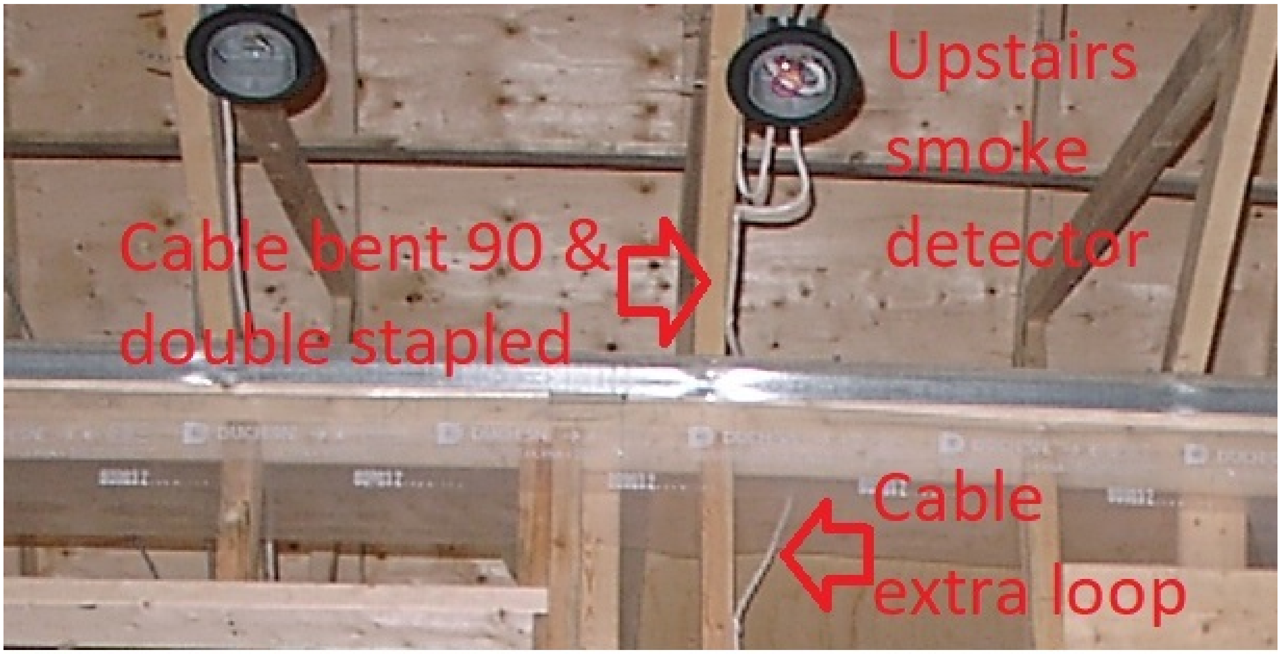
8. Archive, @snave_seer

https://archive.org/details/@snave_seer?sort=-title

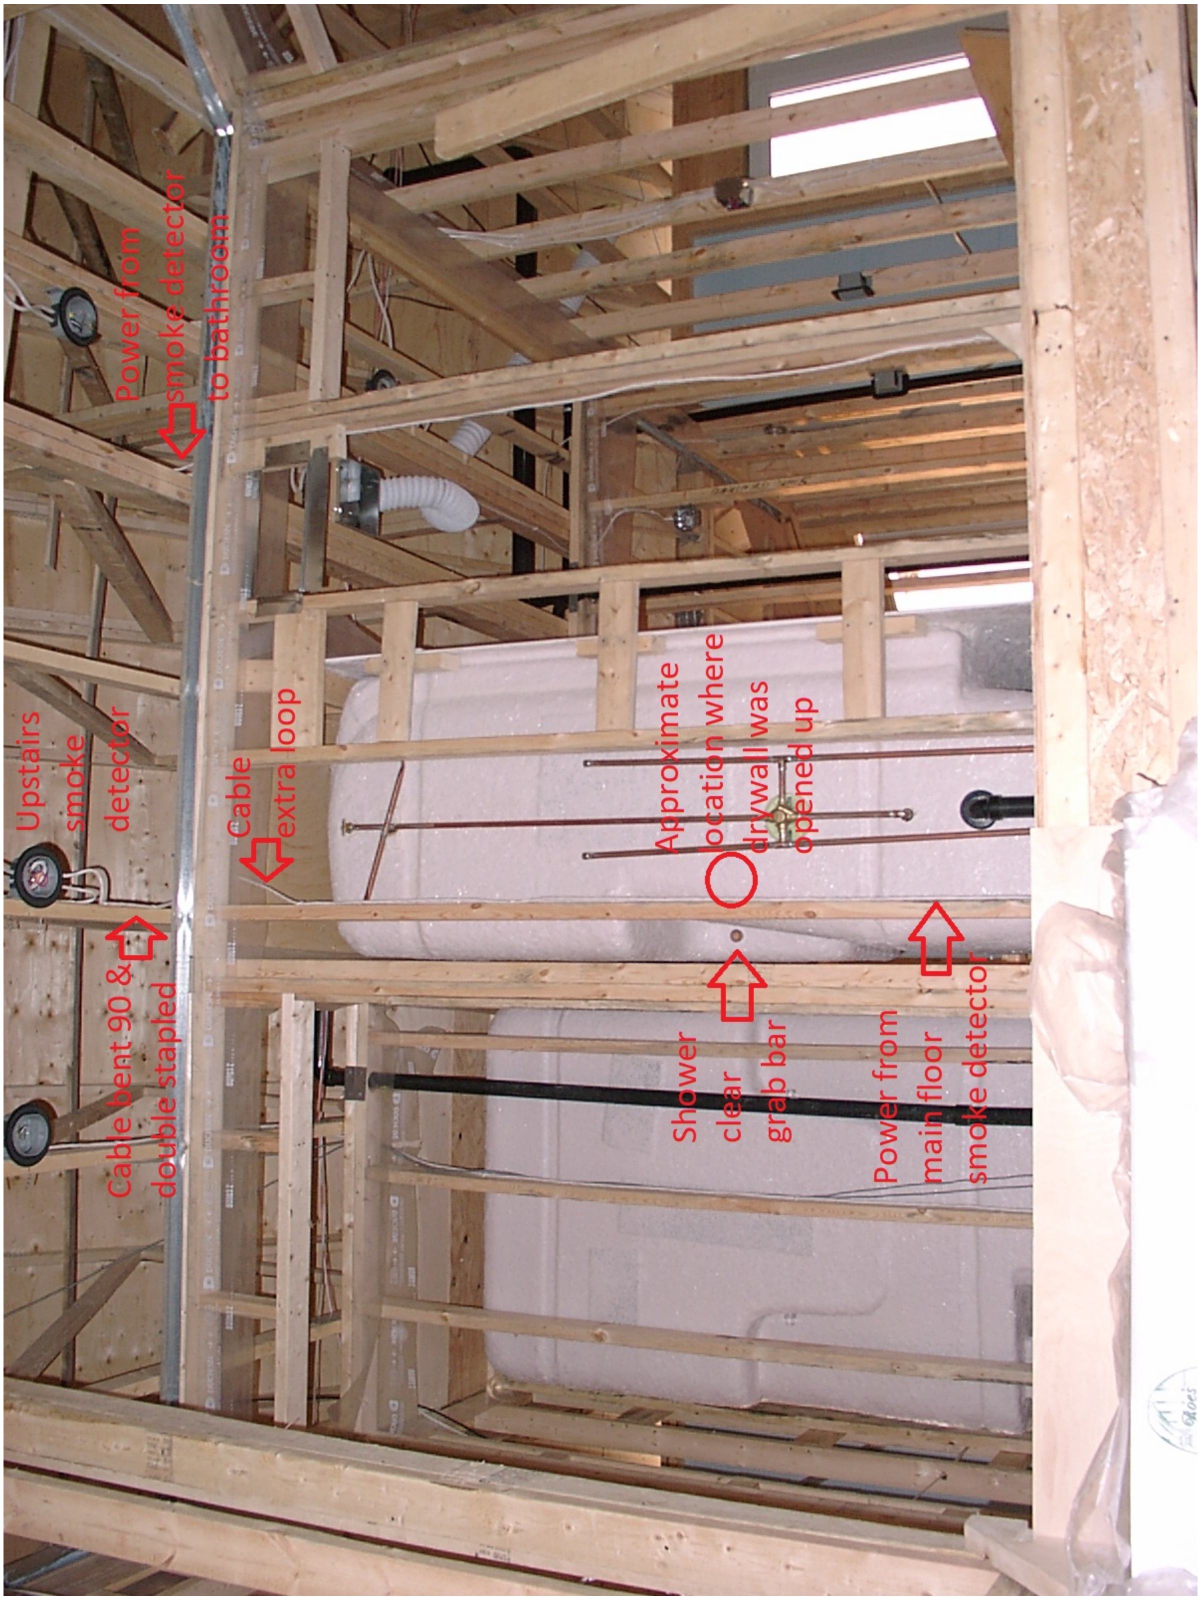
Appendix A: 51 Cheltenham Road – Suspicious Construction Activities

[2000-11-18 | London, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph – wiring during house construction.
- Description: Image shows atypical electrical routing and additional cabling not explained by standard residential installation.
- Notes: Raised early suspicions of covert surveillance setup during the build.
- Reference: See Chapter 3.1–3.2 (Construction of the Home / Suspicious Wiring Discoveries).



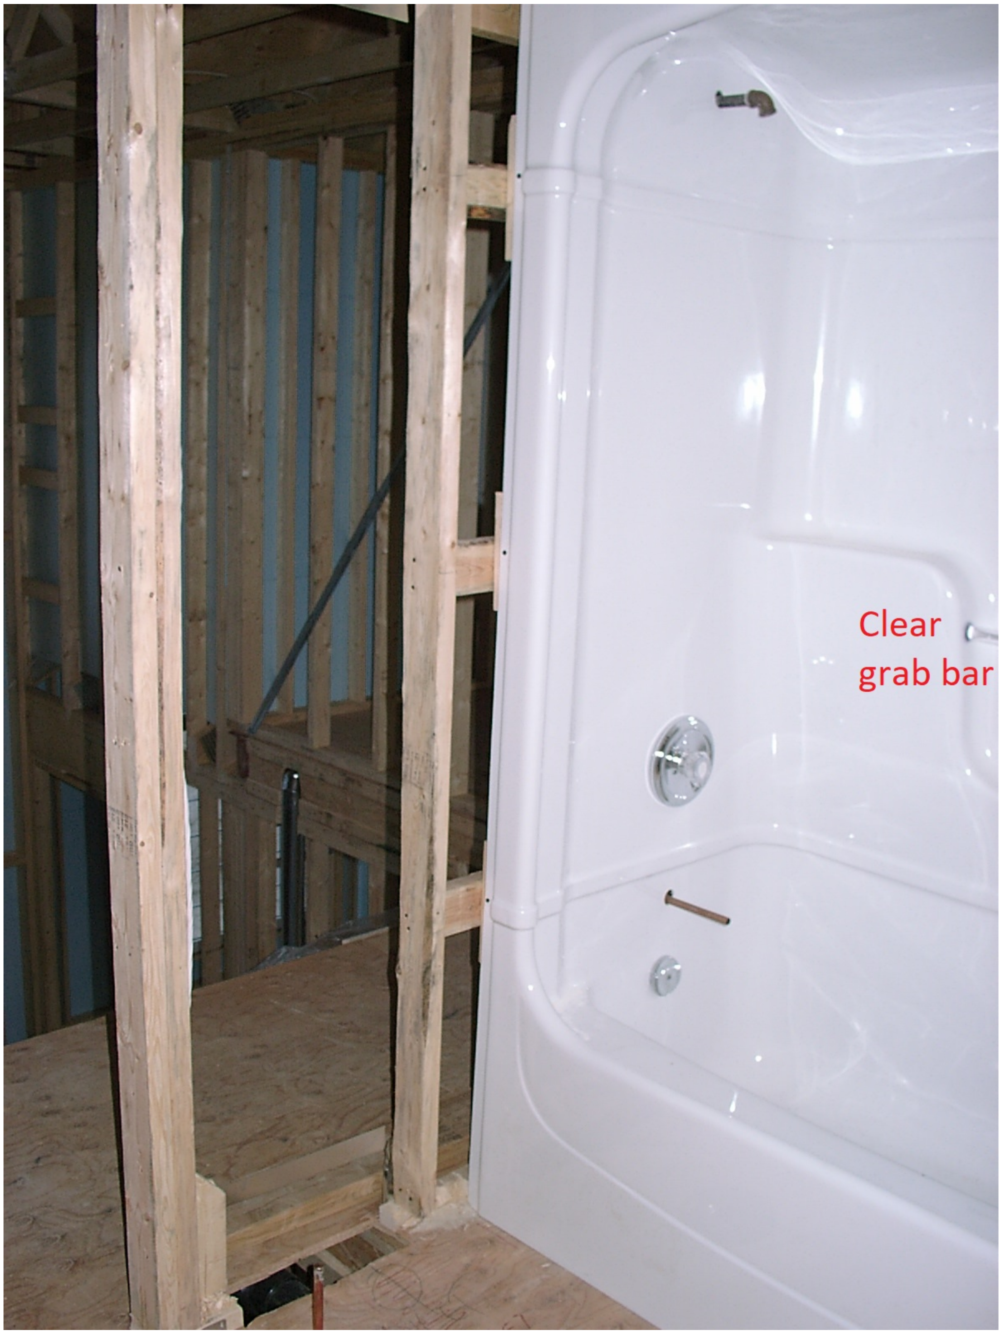
Upstairs smoke detector
Cable bent 90 & double stapled
Cable extra loop



Power from main floor smoke detector
Shower clear grab bar
Approximate location where drywall was opened up
Cable extra loop
Upstairs smoke detector
Cable bent 90 & double stapled
Power from smoke detector to bathroom

[2000-11-18 | London, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph – bathroom with clear grab shower bar.
- Description: During visits from Sophie's parents, a towel was consistently draped over the transparent shower bar.
- Notes: The towel remained soaked, suggesting it had been deliberately wetted. Supports suspicion of bathroom concealment.
- Reference: See Chapter 3.4 (Potential Spy Cam Installation in the Guest Bathroom).



OWNER'S MANUAL
DUCHESNE

[2001-01-27 | London, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph – water leak area.
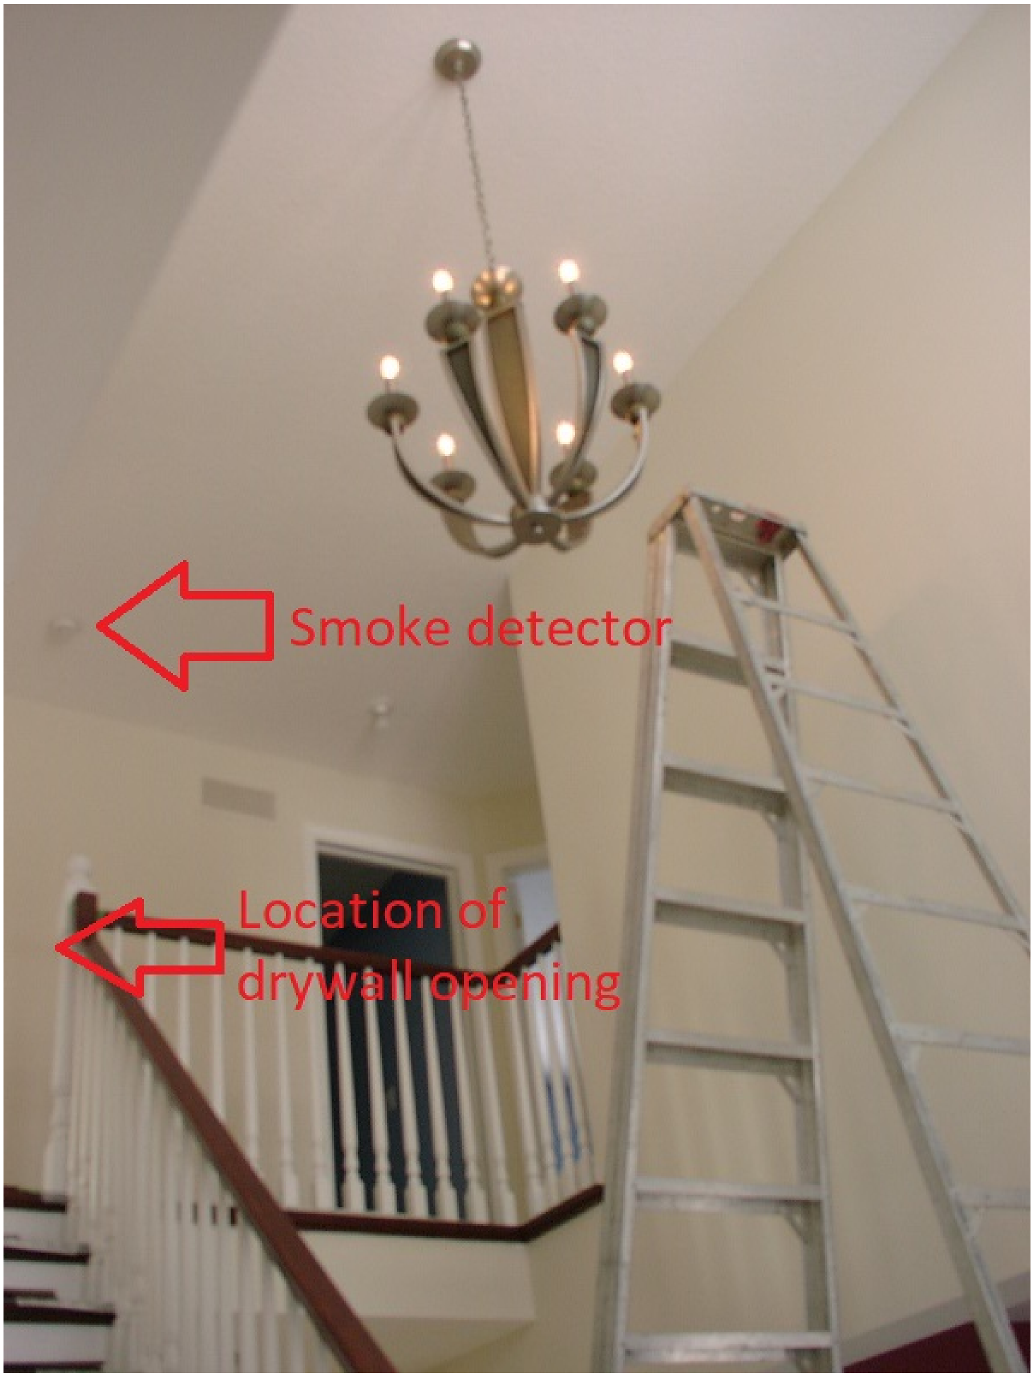
- Description: Water leak incident outside guest bathroom.
- Notes: Considered suspicious, possibly connected to concealment or maintenance of hidden devices.
- Reference: See Chapter 3.3 (The "Water Leak" Incident).



Smoke detector
Location of drywall opening

[2004-03-12 | London, ON]

- Event: Break-in at 24–20 Kernohan Pkwy
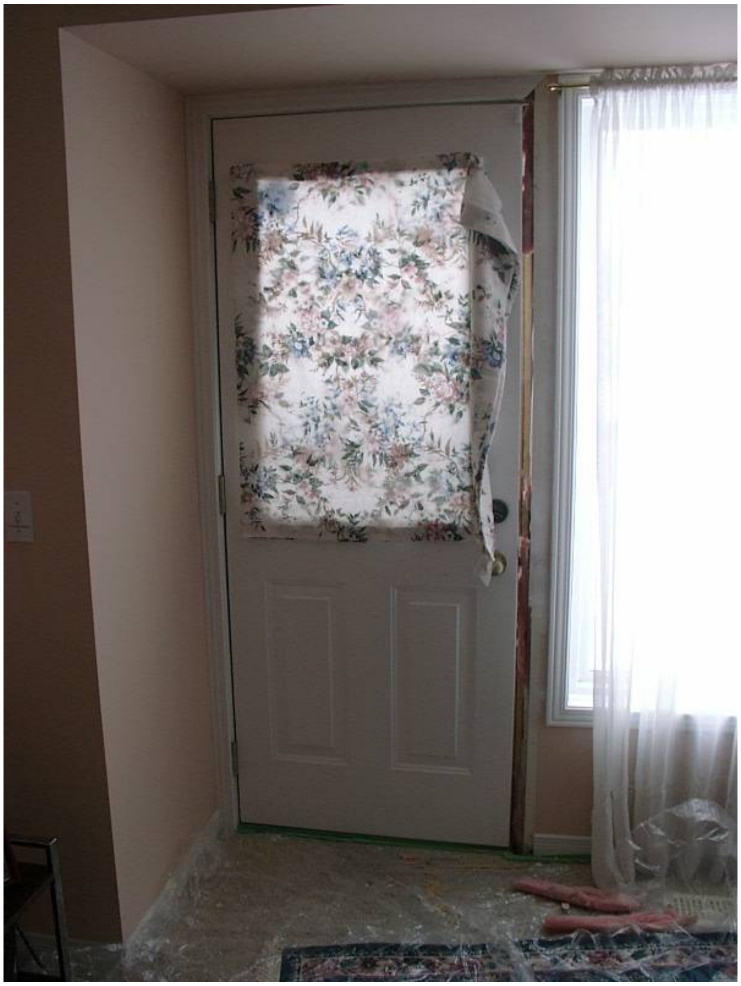
- Evidence: Alarm triggered; police already on site before any call was made.
- Description: While Sophie was away on holiday, the alarm at my parents' condominium went off late at night. I had been drinking and took a cab to the property instead of driving. When I arrived, police were already there — unusual, since I had not contacted them. It was raining heavily, and the police dogs quickly lost the scent. Nothing was stolen.
- Follow-up: The condo management sent someone the next day to repair the damaged door. I stayed and watched the work being done. Not long afterward, the basement flooded, requiring several days of outside access for cleanup and repairs.
- Notes: The officers seemed irritated with me rather than treating it as a typical break-in. Looking back, it felt like a trap that failed when I arrived by taxi rather than driving. The subsequent flood extended access to the property, reinforcing my suspicions about covert intrusion.
- Reference: See Chapter 3.5 (Suspicions Regarding Sophie LaRochelle).

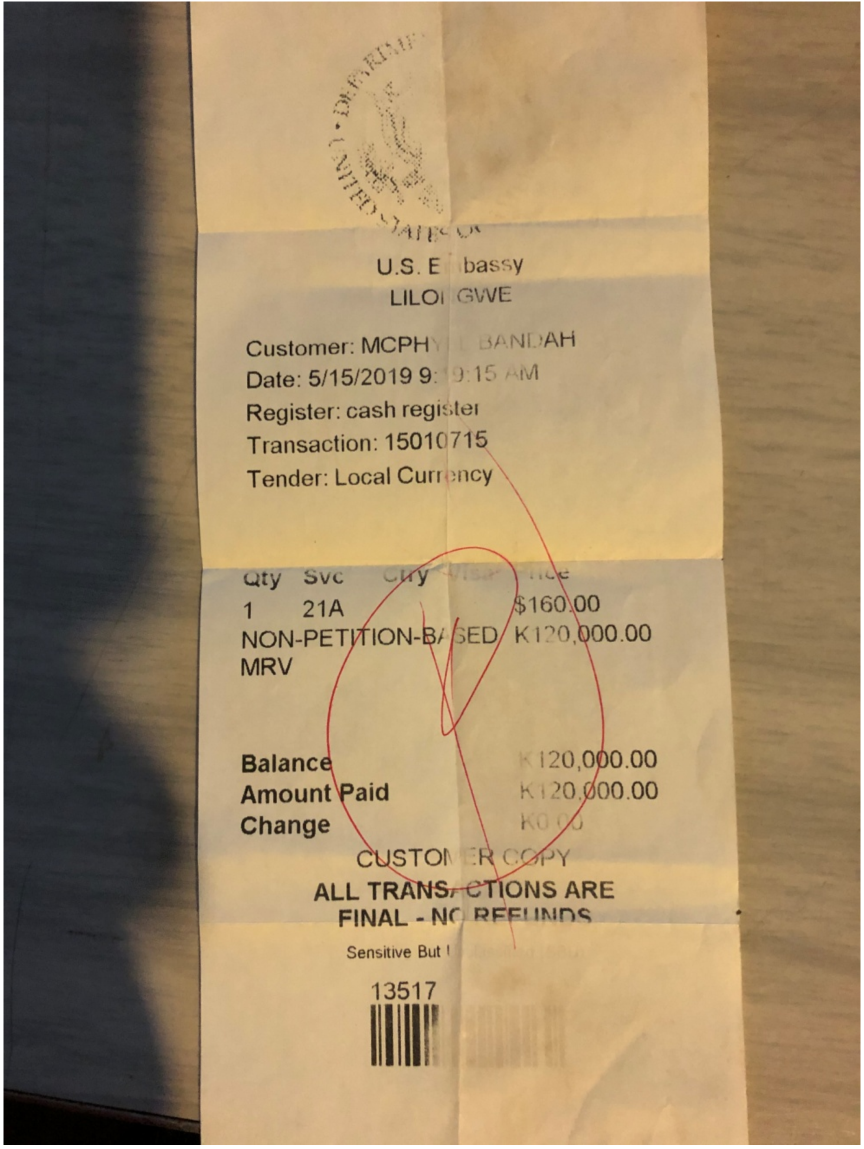


Appendix B: 410 Allendale Road – Encounters with McPhyll Bandah

[2021-04-18 | Cambridge, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph of garbage left behind by McPhyll Bandah after abrupt departure.
- Description: Discovered customs documentation showing Bandah's entry from Malawi to the USA on 2019-05-15, and receipt for an iPhone 8 shipped to Lilongwe, Malawi on 2020-03-06 (while he was in London, ON).
- Notes: The evidence raised concerns about my own iPhone 8 being compromised. Subsequent inspection revealed unauthorized fingerprint ID set up.
- Reference: See Chapter 5.5–5.6 (Customs Documents and iPhone Hacking).

[2019-05-15] Customs document



U.S. Embassy
LILOI GWE

Customer: MCPHY L BANDAH
Date: 5/15/2019 9: 9:15 AM
Register: cash register
Transaction: 15010715
Tender: Local Currency

Qty	Svc	Ctry	Visa	Price
1	21A			$160.00
NON-PETITION-BASED MRV				K120,000.00

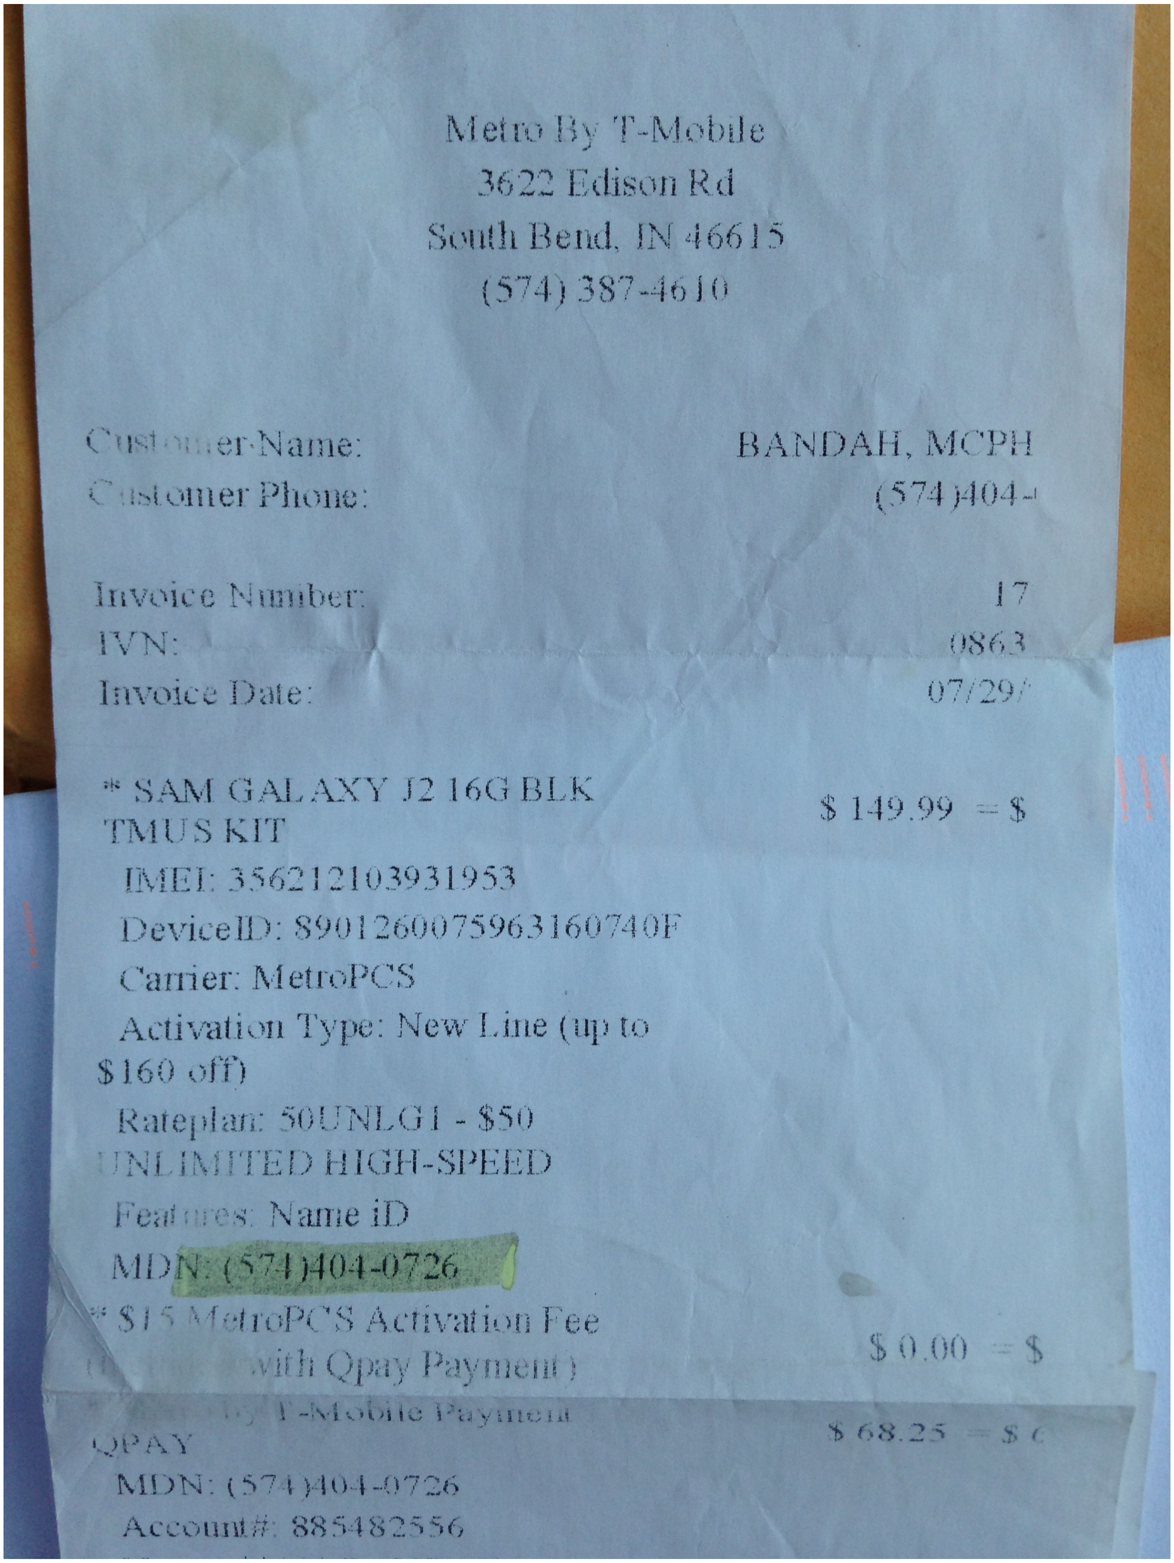
Balance	K120,000.00
Amount Paid	K120,000.00
Change	K0.00

CUSTOMER COPY
ALL TRANSACTIONS ARE
FINAL - NO REFUNDS

Sensitive But [illegible]

13517

[2019-07-29] American phone receipt



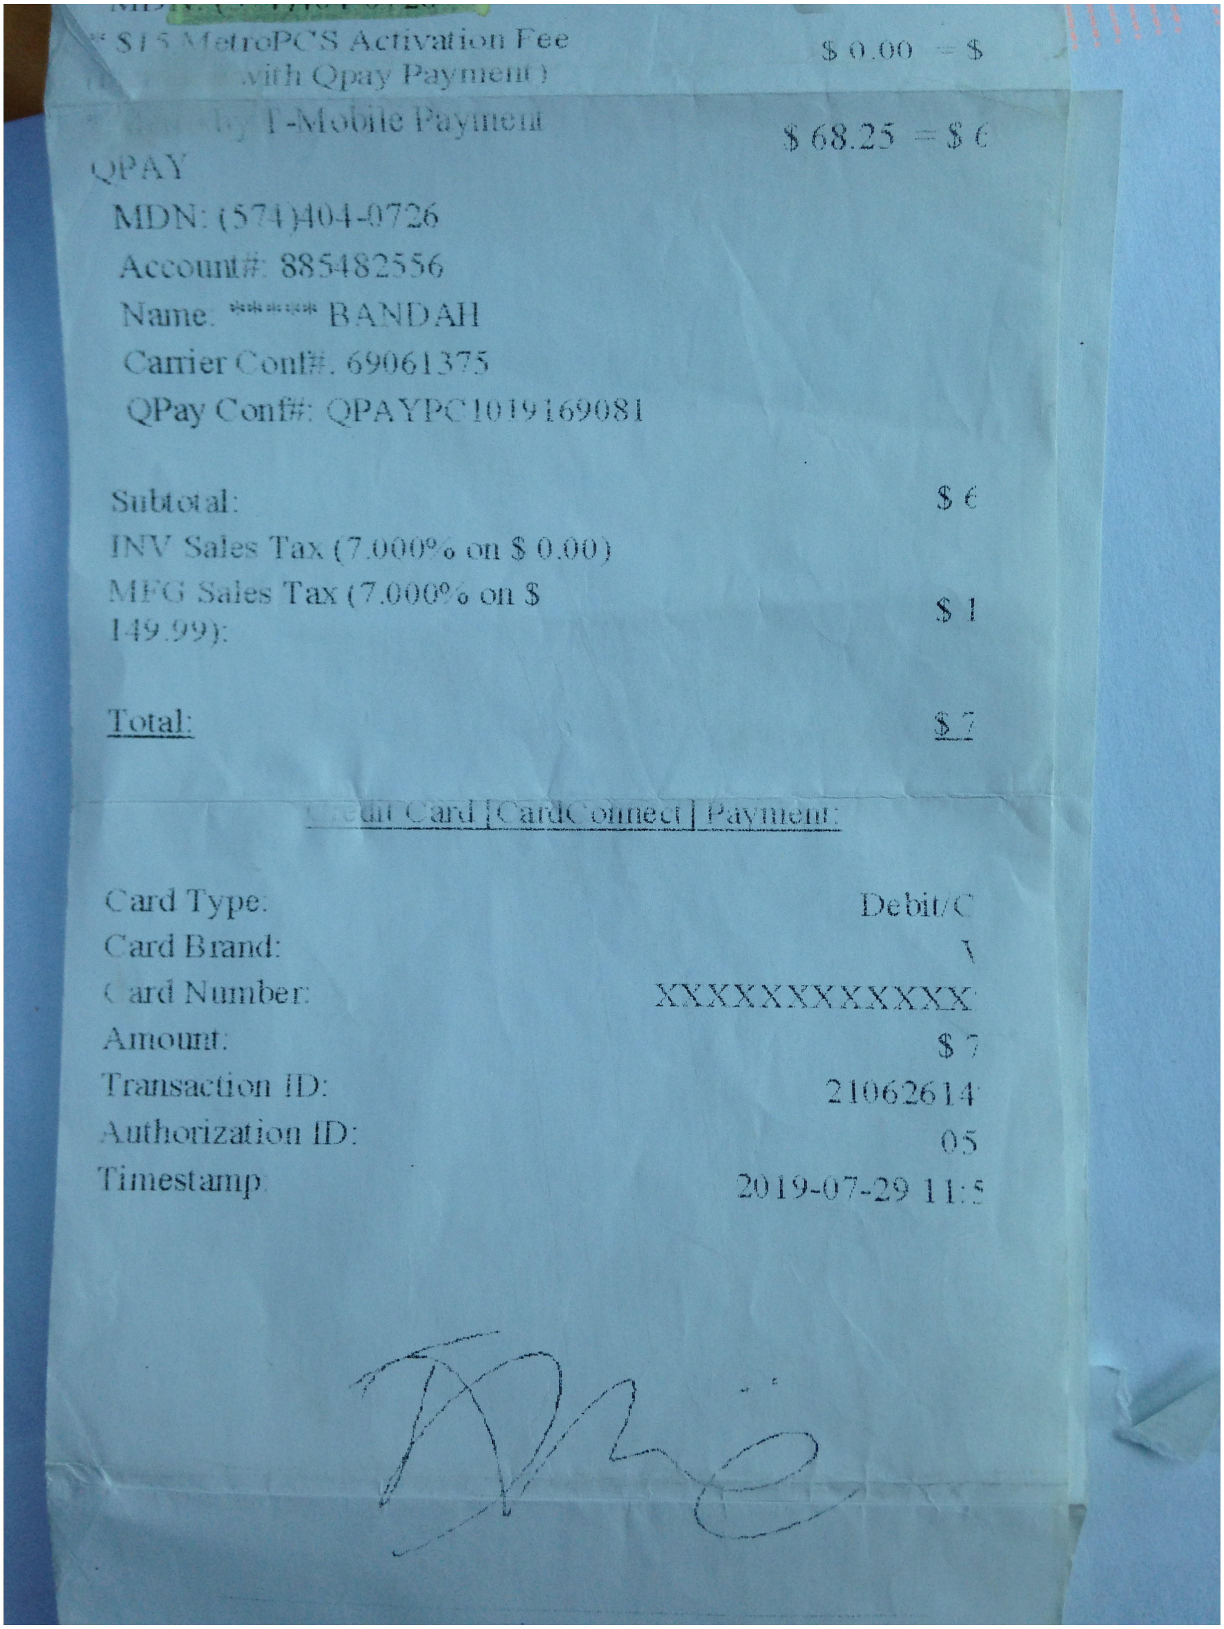
Metro By T-Mobile
3622 Edison Rd
South Bend, IN 46615
(574) 387-4610

Customer Name:	BANDAH, MCPH
Customer Phone:	(574)404-
Invoice Number:	17
IVN:	0863
Invoice Date:	07/29/

* SAM GALAXY J2 16G BLK TMUS KIT $ 149.99 = $
IMEI: 356212103931953
DeviceID: 8901260075963160740F
Carrier: MetroPCS
Activation Type: New Line (up to $160 off)
Rateplan: 50UNLG1 - $50 UNLIMITED HIGH-SPEED
Features: Name iD
MDN: (574)404-0726

* $15 MetroPCS Activation Fee ([illegible] with Qpay Payment) $ 0.00 = $

* Metro by T-Mobile Payment QPAY $ 68.25 = $
MDN: (574)404-0726
Account#: 885482556



* $15 MetroPCS Activation Fee with Qpay Payment)	$ 0.00 = $
by T-Mobile Payment	$ 68.25 = $ 6

QPAY
MDN: (574)404-0726
Account#: 885482556
Name:  BANDAH
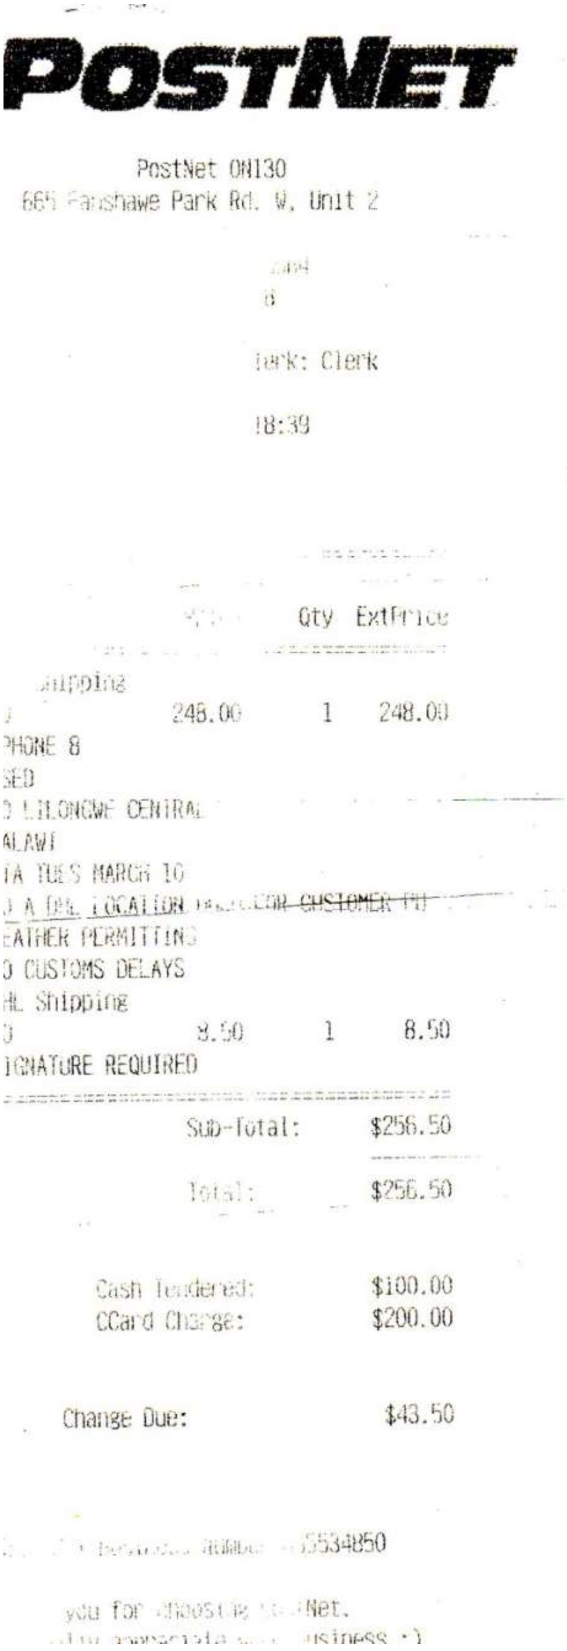
Carrier Conf#. 69061375
QPay Conf#: QPAYPC1019169081

Subtotal:	$ 6
INV Sales Tax (7.000% on $ 0.00)
MFG Sales Tax (7.000% on $ 149.99):	$ 1
Total:	$ 7

Credit Card [CardConnect] Payment:

Card Type:	Debit/C
Card Brand:	V
Card Number:	XXXXXXXXXXXX
Amount:	$ 7
Transaction ID:	21062614
Authorization ID:	05
Timestamp:	2019-07-29 11:

[2020-03-06] iPhone 8 shipped



POSTNET

PostNet ON130
665 Fanshawe Park Rd. W, Unit 2

Clerk: Clerk

18:39

		Qty	ExtPrice
hipping
	248.00	1	248.00

PHONE 8
SED
LILONGWE CENTRAL ALAWI
IA TUES MARCH 10
A DHL LOCATION [illegible] ~~FOR CUSTOMER PU~~
EATHER PERMITTING
O CUSTOMS DELAYS

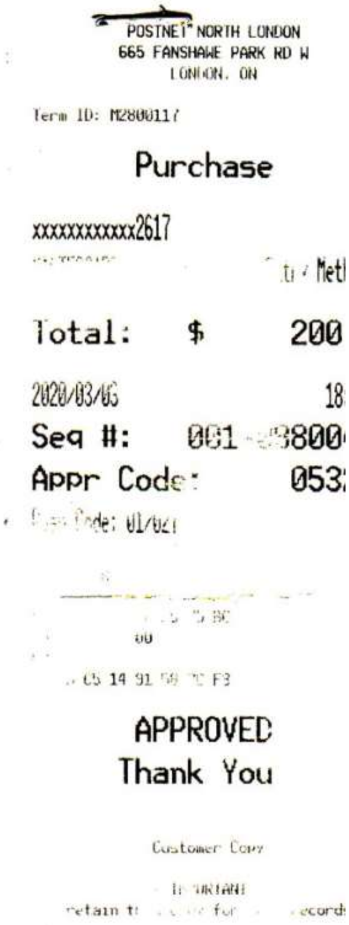
		Qty	ExtPrice
HL Shipping
	8.50	1	8.50

IGNATURE REQUIRED

Sub-Total:	$256.50
Total:	$256.50
Cash Tendered:	$100.00
CCard Charge:	$200.00
Change Due:	$43.50

[illegible] Business Number [illegible]5534850

you for choosing PostNet.
[illegible] appreciate your business :)



POSTNET NORTH LONDON
665 FANSHAWE PARK RD W
LONDON, ON

Term ID: M2800117

Purchase

xxxxxxxxxxxx2617

Entry Meth

Total:	$	200

2020/03/06 18

Seq #: 001 [illegible]3800

Appr Code: 053

Resp Code: 01/021

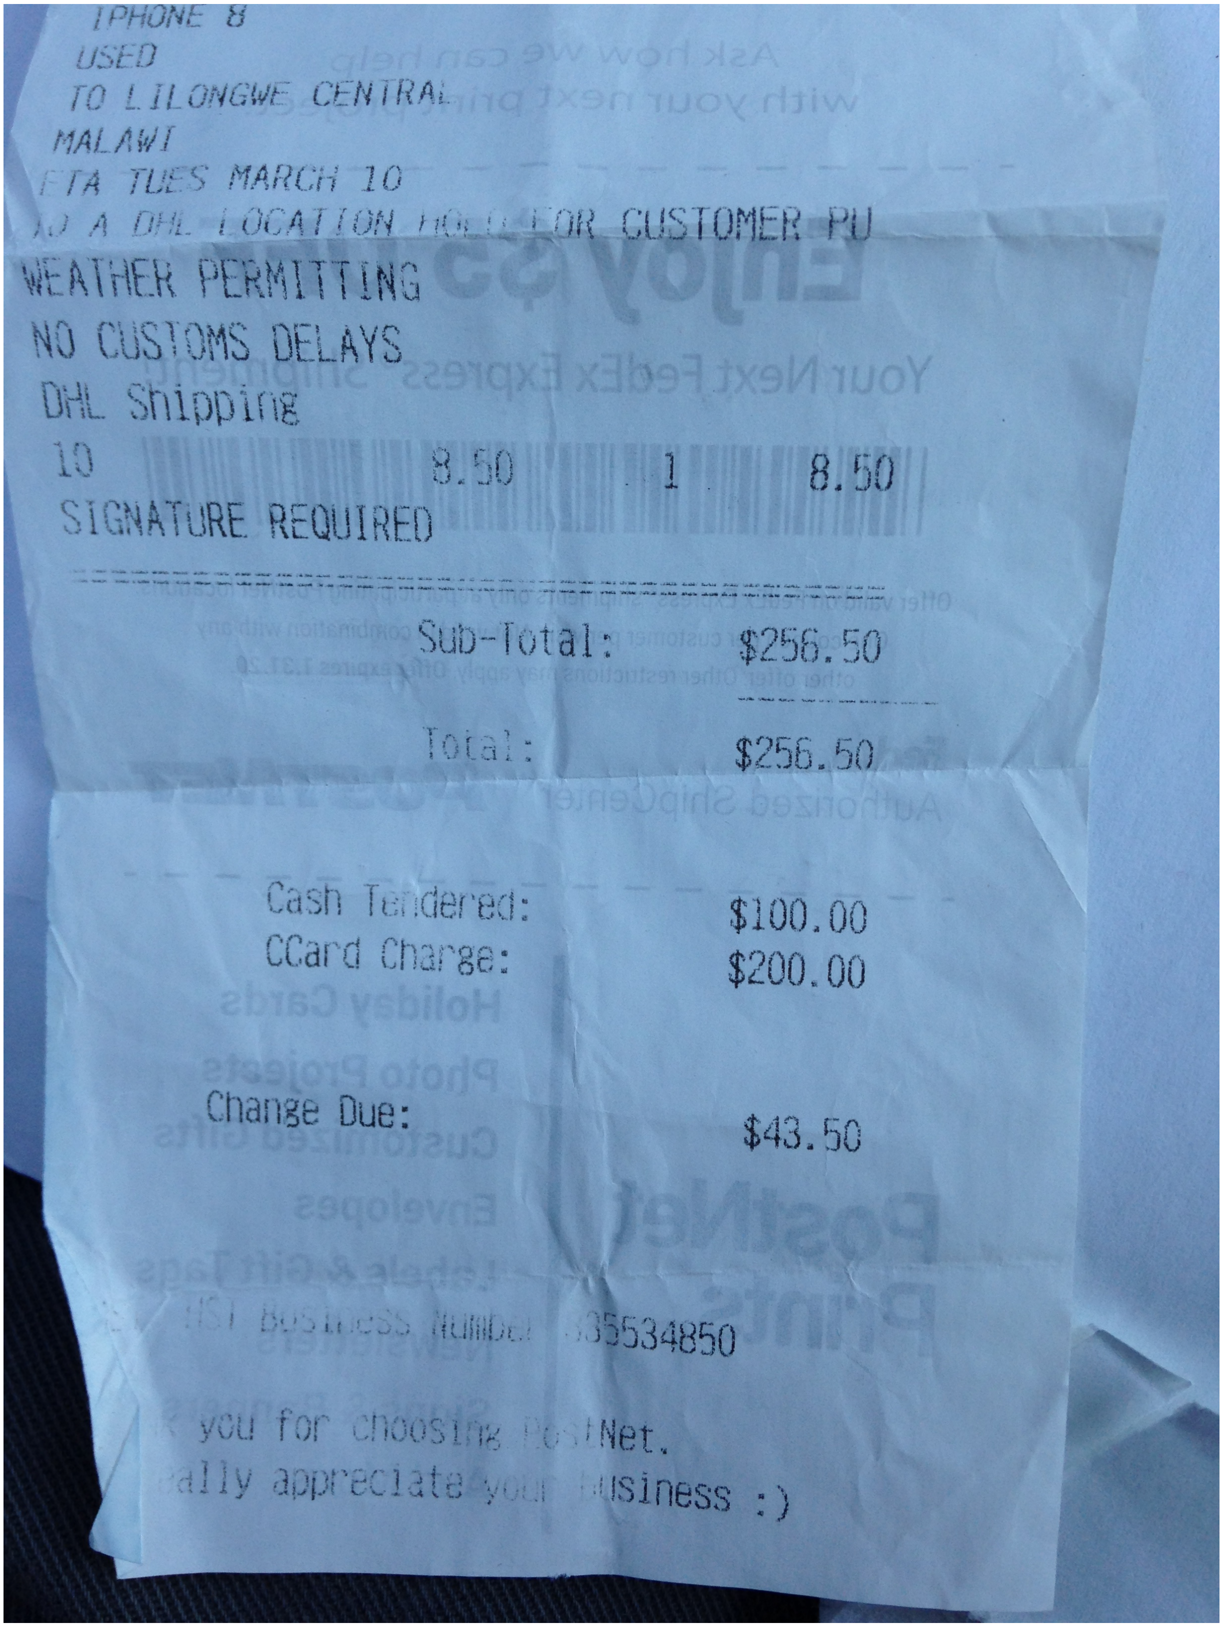
00

C5 14 91 58 [illegible] F3

APPROVED
Thank You

Customer Copy

IMPORTANT
retain this copy for your records



IPHONE 8
USED
TO LILONGWE CENTRAL MALAWI
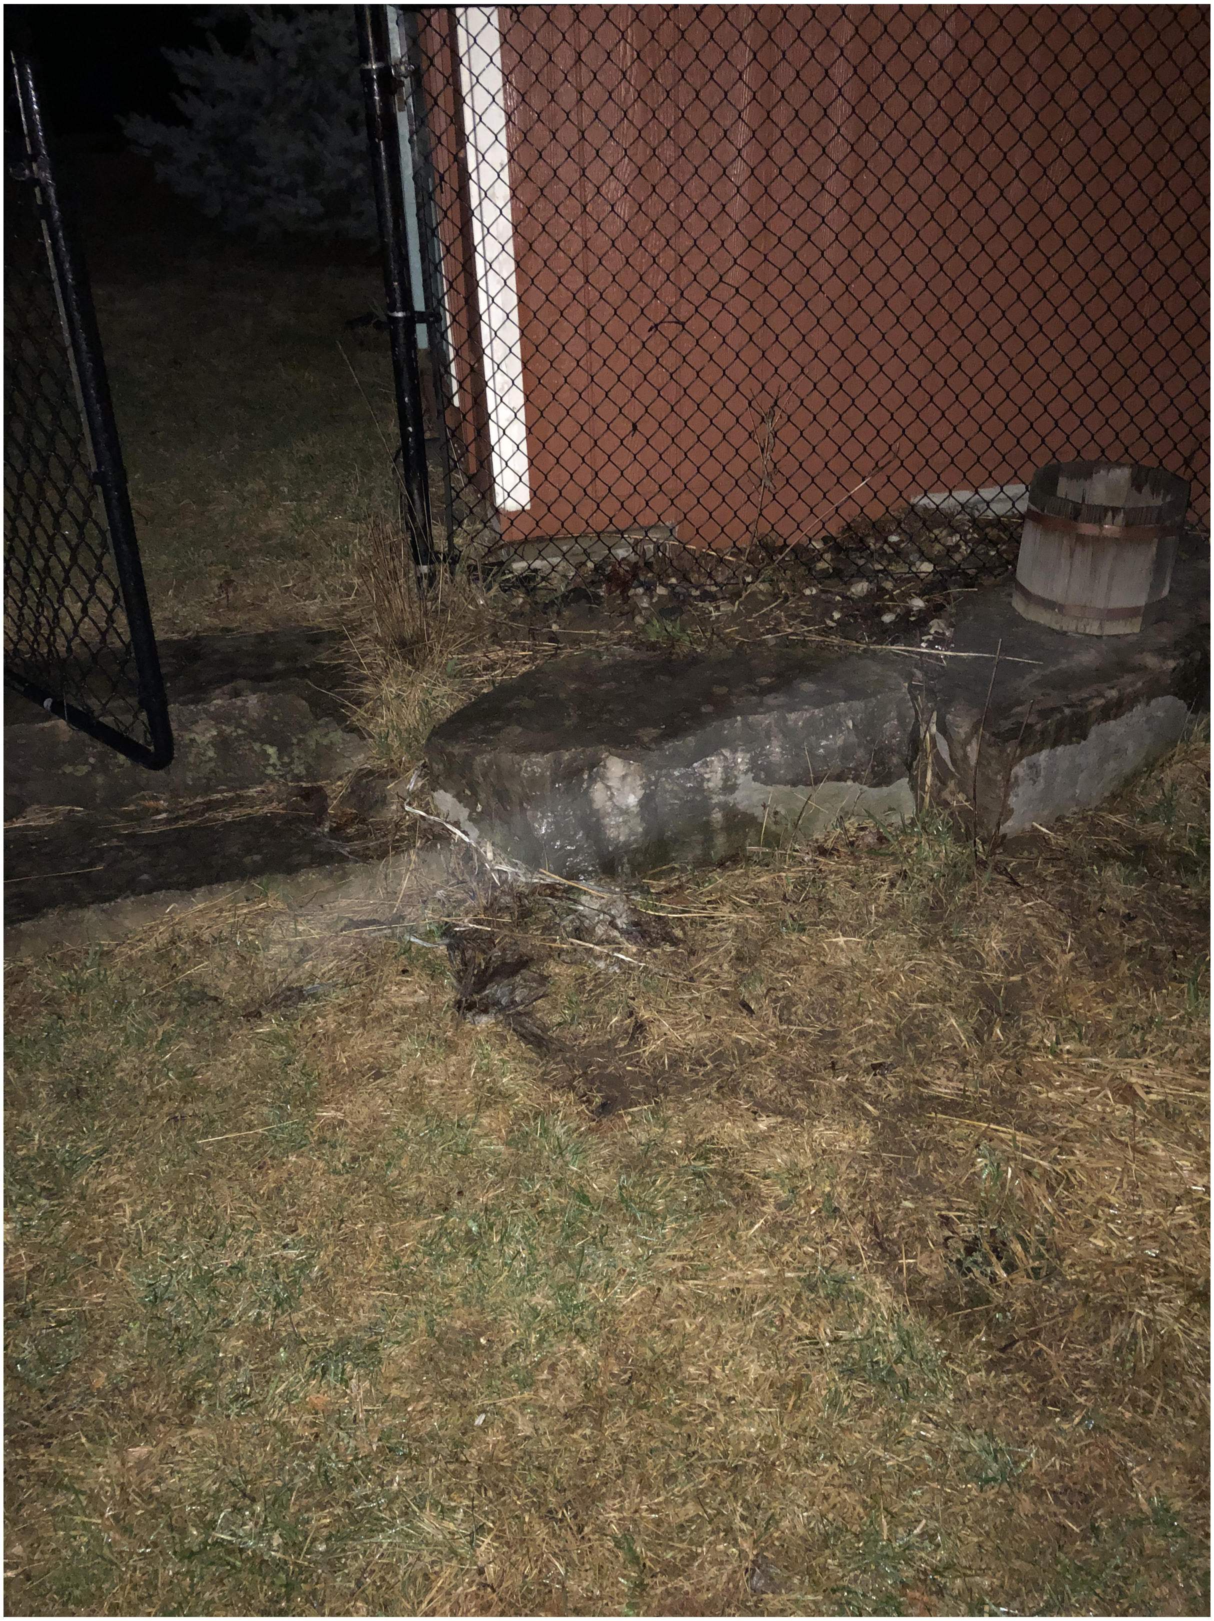
ETA TUES MARCH 10
TO A DHL LOCATION HOLD FOR CUSTOMER PU
WEATHER PERMITTING
NO CUSTOMS DELAYS
DHL Shipping
10 8.50 1 8.50
SIGNATURE REQUIRED

Sub-Total:	$256.50
Total:	$256.50
Cash Tendered:	$100.00
CCard Charge:	$200.00
Change Due:	$43.50

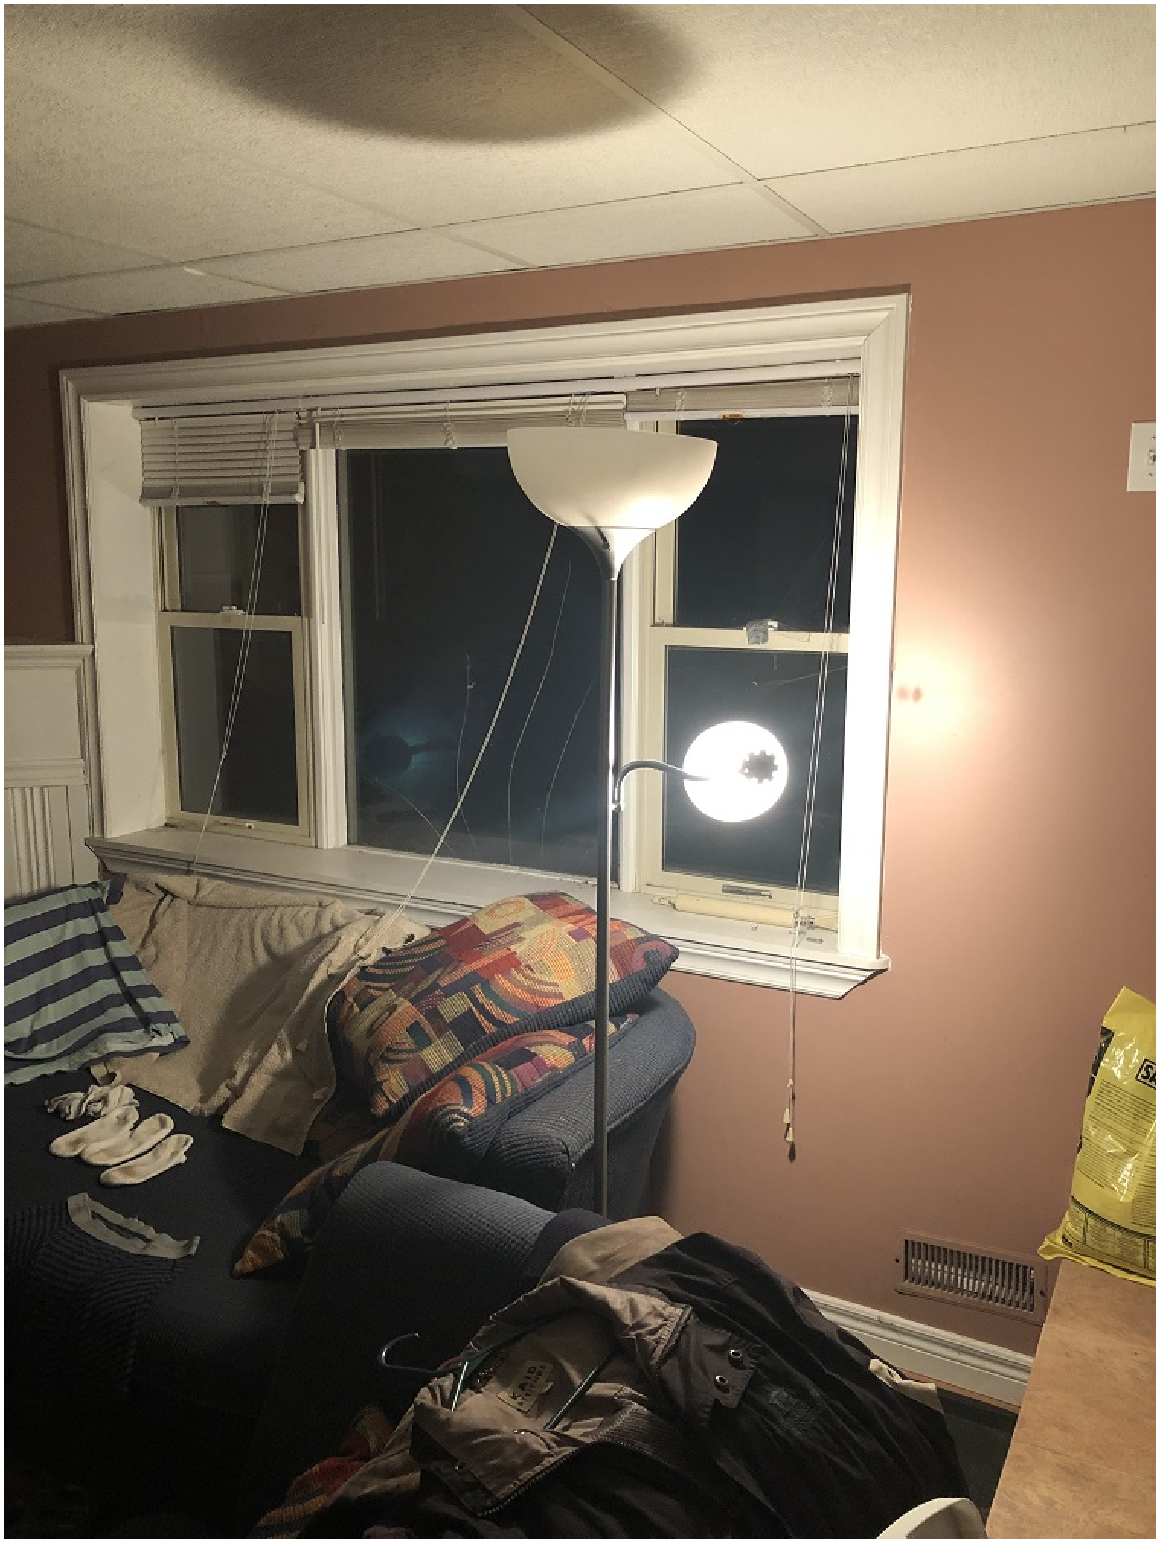
GST Business Number 35534850

k you for choosing PostNet.
ally appreciate your business :)

[2021-03-26] Backyard

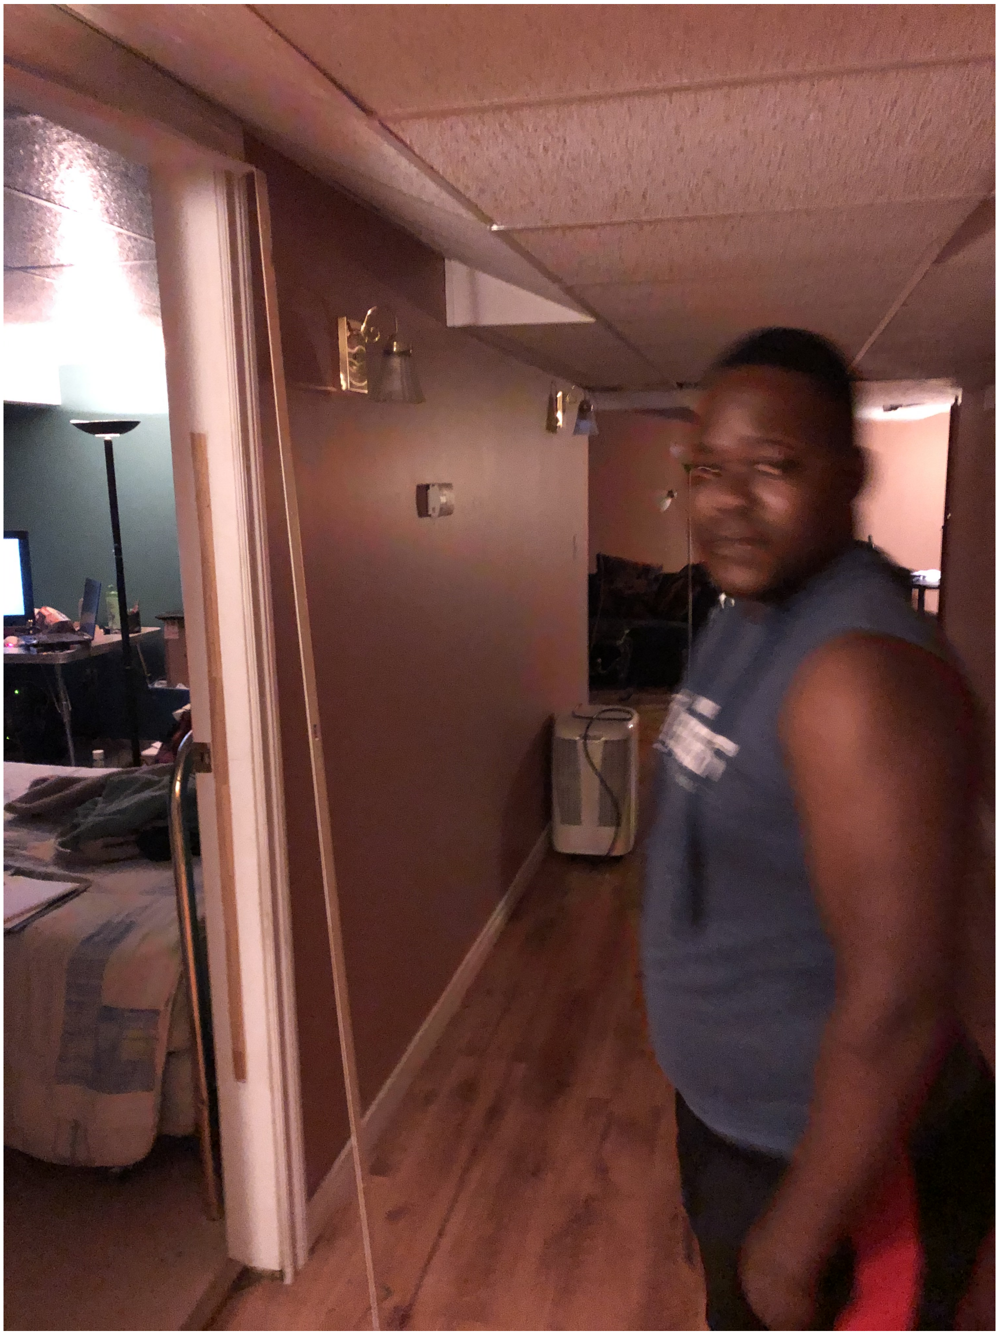


[2021-04] McPhyll positioned light to point outdoors

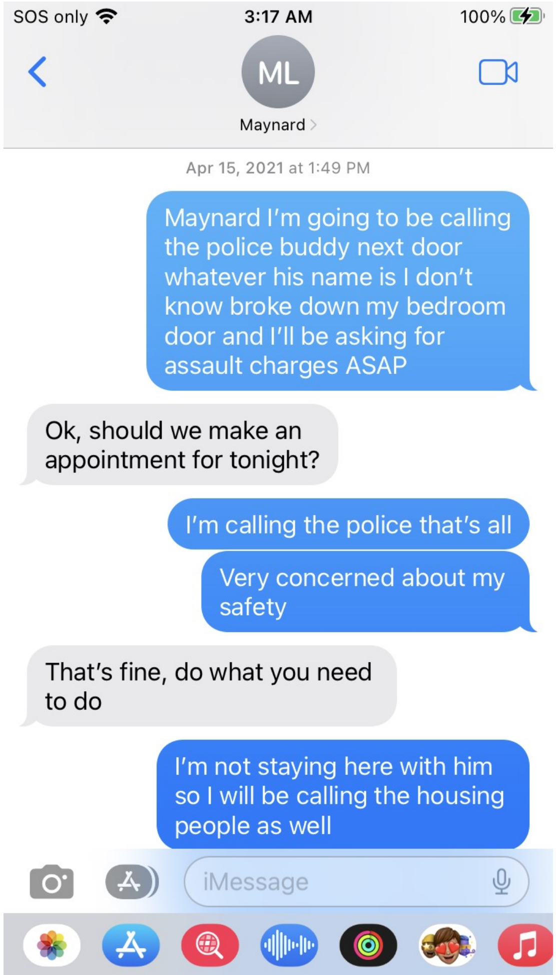


[2021-04-15 | Cambridge, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph (captured immediately after incident).
- Description: Image of McPhyll Bandah standing in doorway after forcing entry into my room. Taken moments after physical assault during confrontation.
- Notes: Bandah stated, "I'm from Africa, I'm protected," which I interpreted as a threat referencing either witchcraft or law enforcement protection.
- Reference: See Chapter 5.3–5.4 (Assault and Police Refusal to Act).



[2021-04-15] Landlord – refuses to address housing situation



Apr 15, 2021 at 1:49 PM

Maynard I'm going to be calling the police buddy next door whatever his name is I don't know broke down my bedroom door and I'll be asking for assault charges ASAP

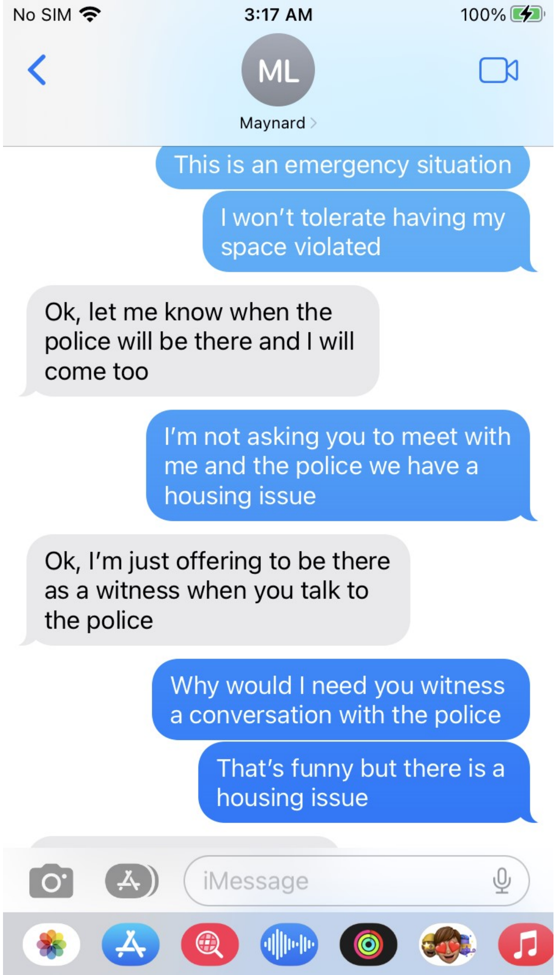
Ok, should we make an appointment for tonight?

I'm calling the police that's all

Very concerned about my safety

That's fine, do what you need to do

I'm not staying here with him so I will be calling the housing people as well



This is an emergency situation

I won't tolerate having my space violated

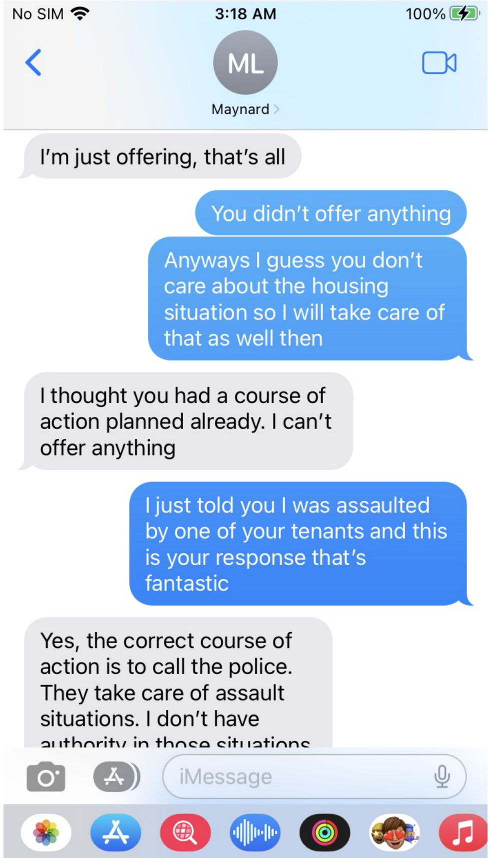
Ok, let me know when the police will be there and I will come too

I'm not asking you to meet with me and the police we have a housing issue

Ok, I'm just offering to be there as a witness when you talk to the police

Why would I need you witness a conversation with the police

That's funny but there is a housing issue



I'm just offering, that's all

You didn't offer anything

Anyways I guess you don't care about the housing situation so I will take care of that as well then

I thought you had a course of action planned already. I can't offer anything

I just told you I was assaulted by one of your tenants and this is your response that's fantastic

Yes, the correct course of action is to call the police. They take care of assault situations. I don't have authority in those situations authority in those situations.

You have a spare room don't you at the other place? Can't you put him there for 2 weeks

Right now I can't even lock my door

I'm trying to pack my stuff is everywhere I can't leave my door open and he won't mind his own business

It's a creep show

Apr 15, 2021 at 5:23 PM

That room is occupied until the end of the month

Until I sort this out can you tell me what buddies work schedule is so that I can leave schedule is so that I can leave the house. I can't leave if he's here

I'm not even comfortable taking a shower

And the door needs fixing

I don't know his work schedule, sorry. I don't know him very well at all.

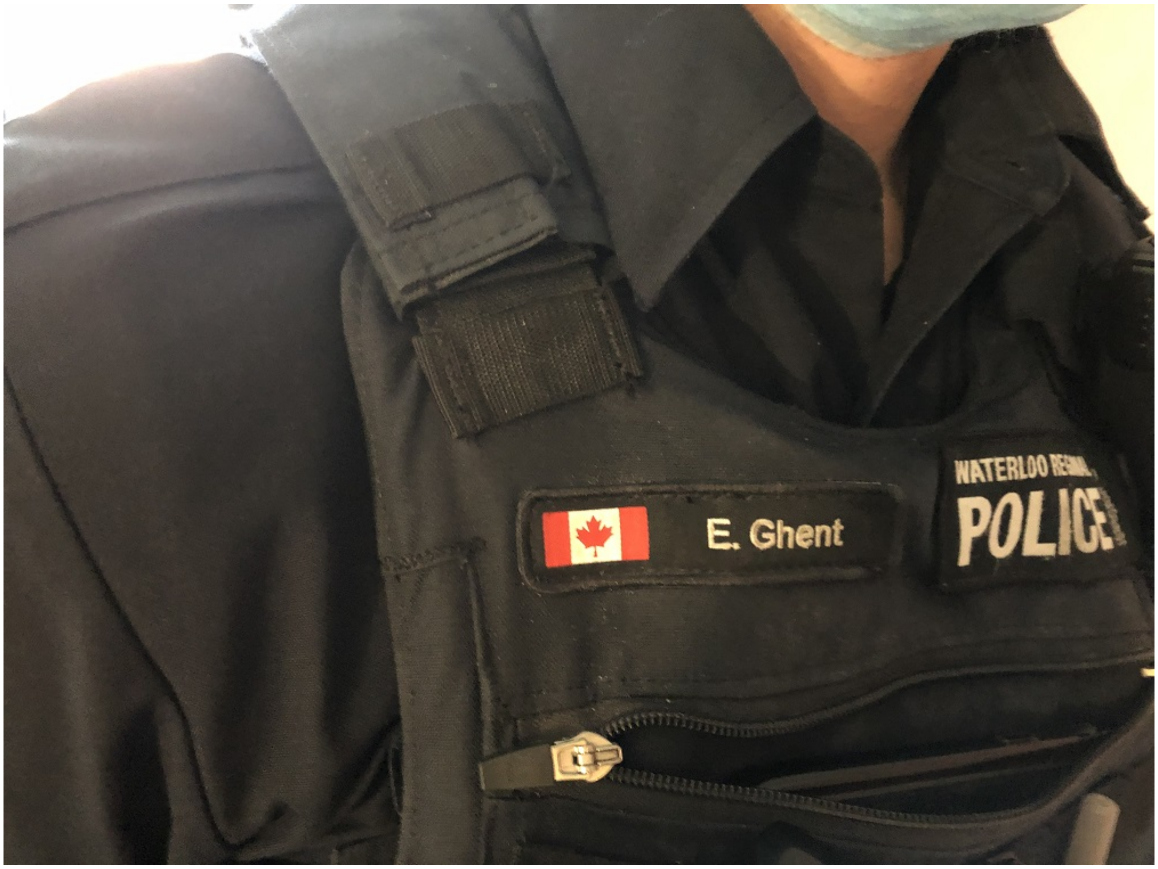
I will look at the door ASAP

Do the door tomorrow if you like

Apr 16, 2021 at 1:43 PM

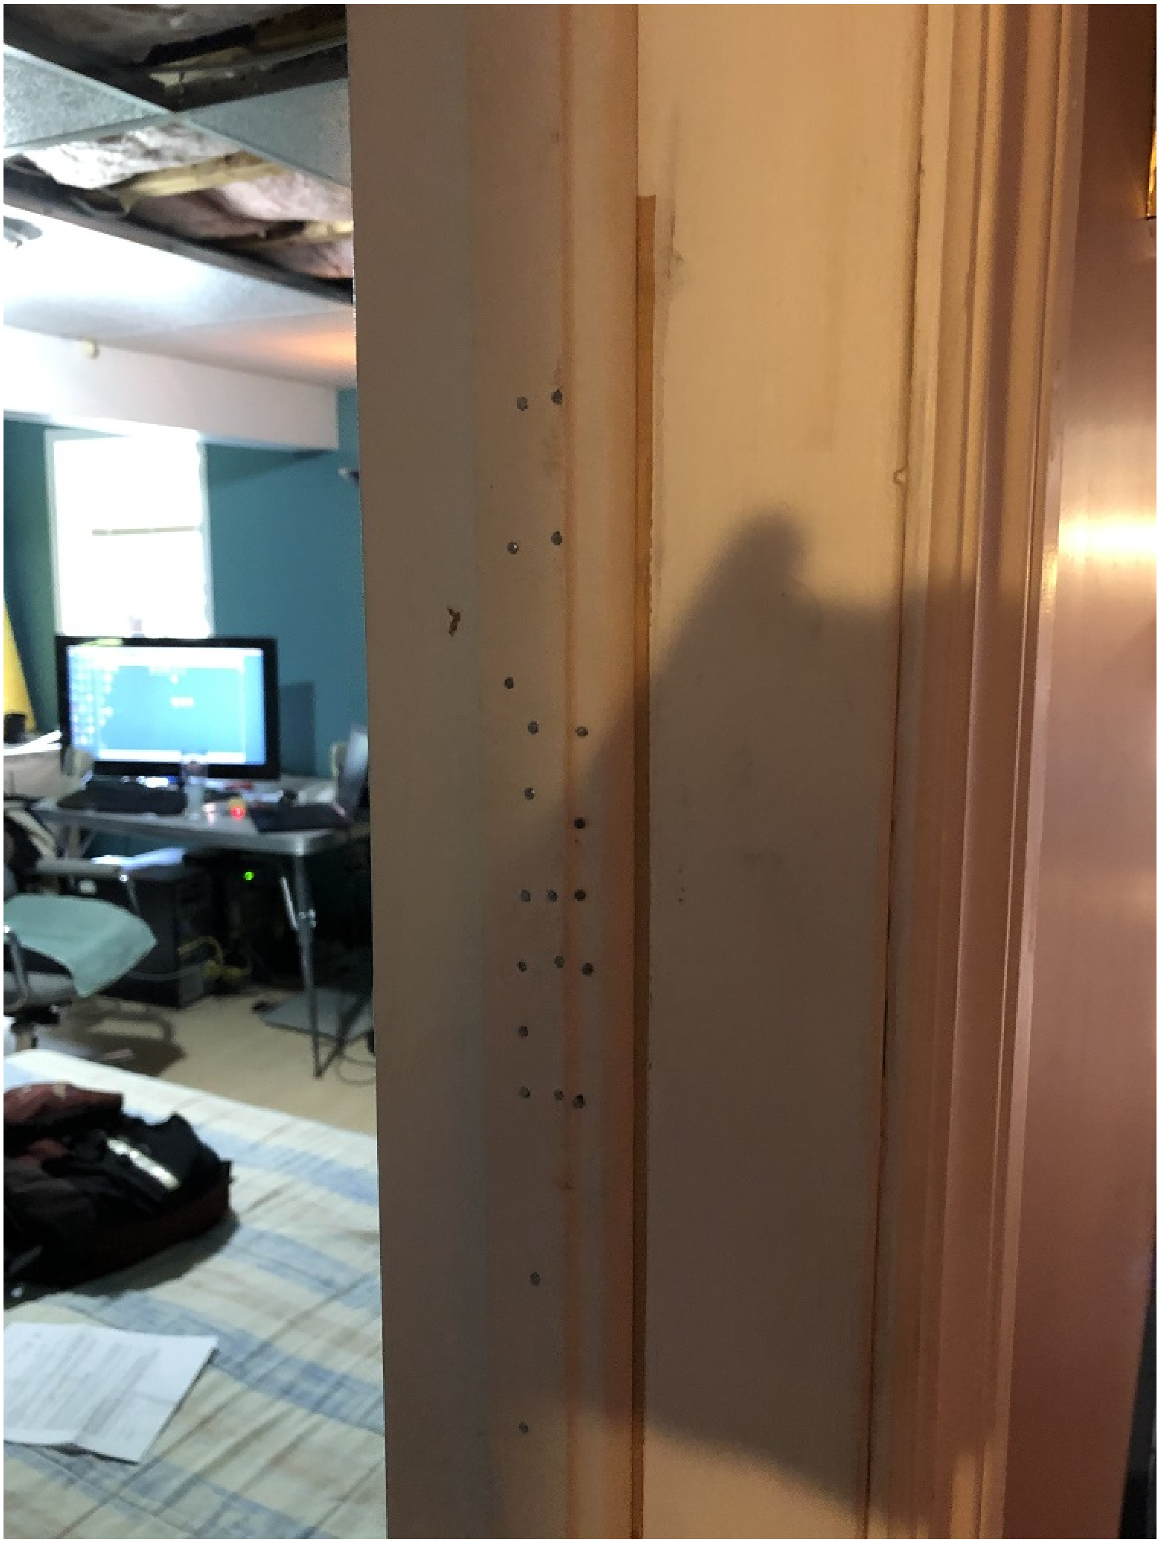
I can be down in five minutes to look at the door and possibly fix it if that works for you

[2021-04-18] McPhyll removed after he filed a noise complaint

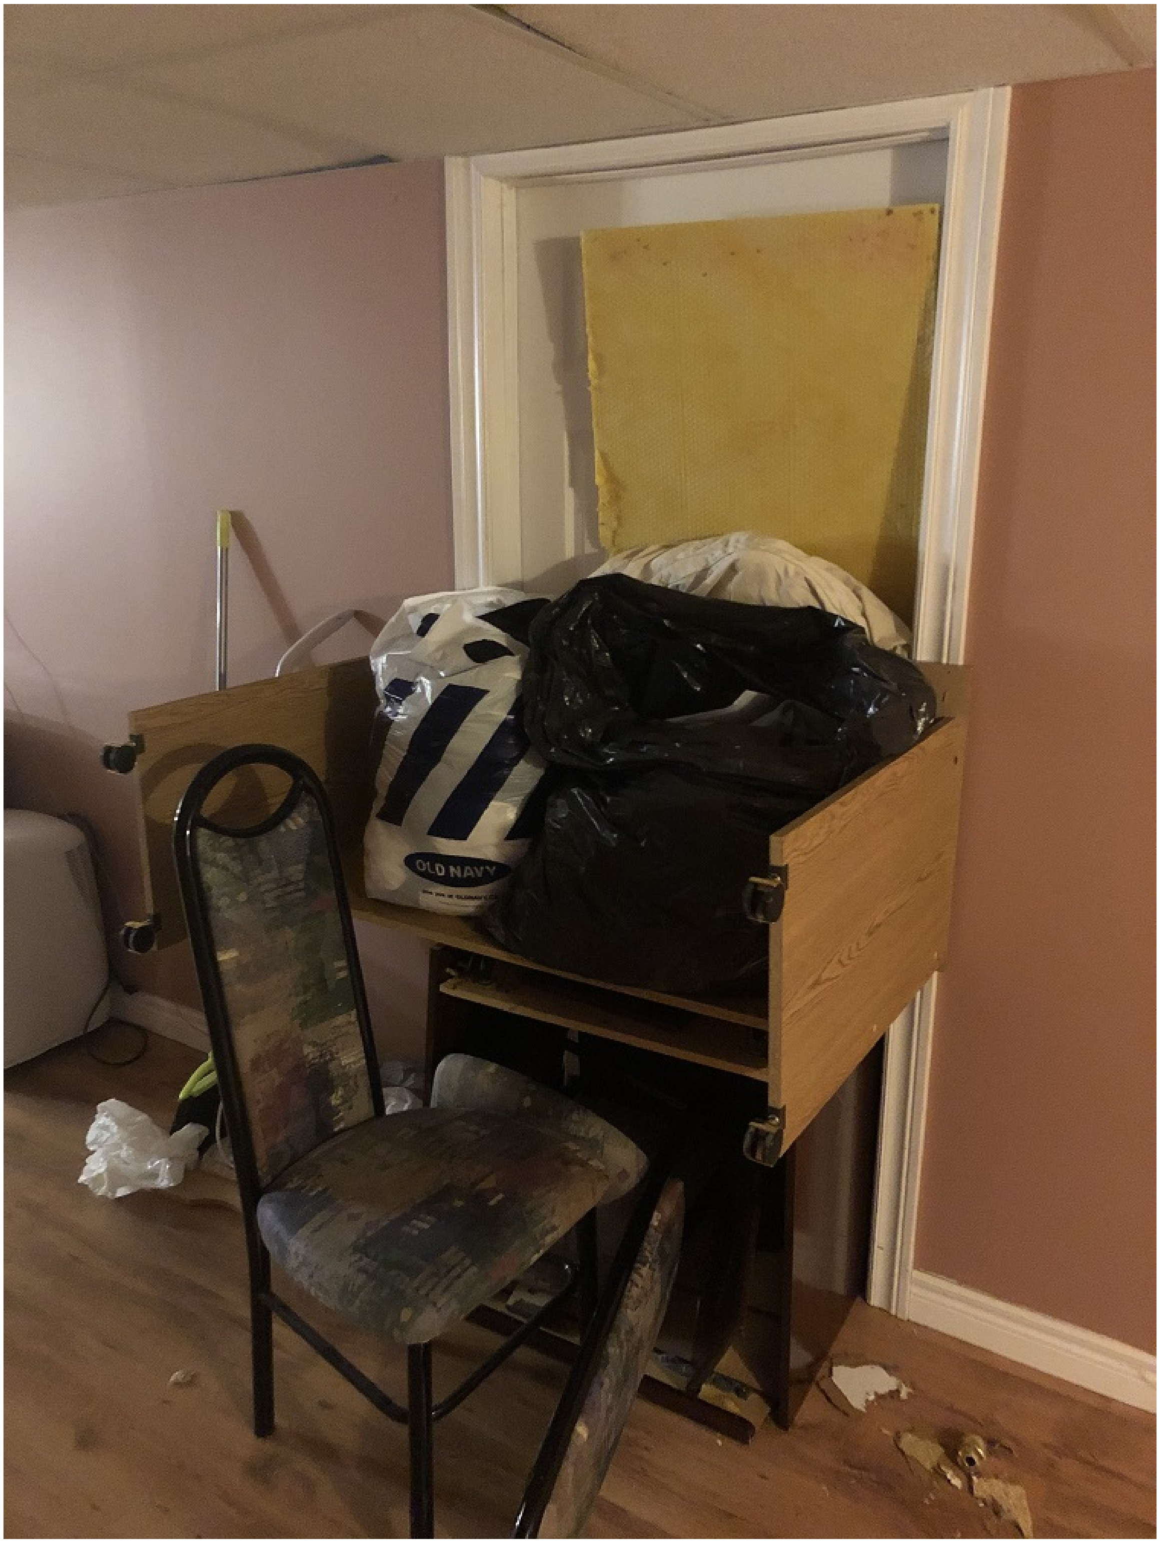


E. Ghent
WATERLOO REGIONAL
POLICE

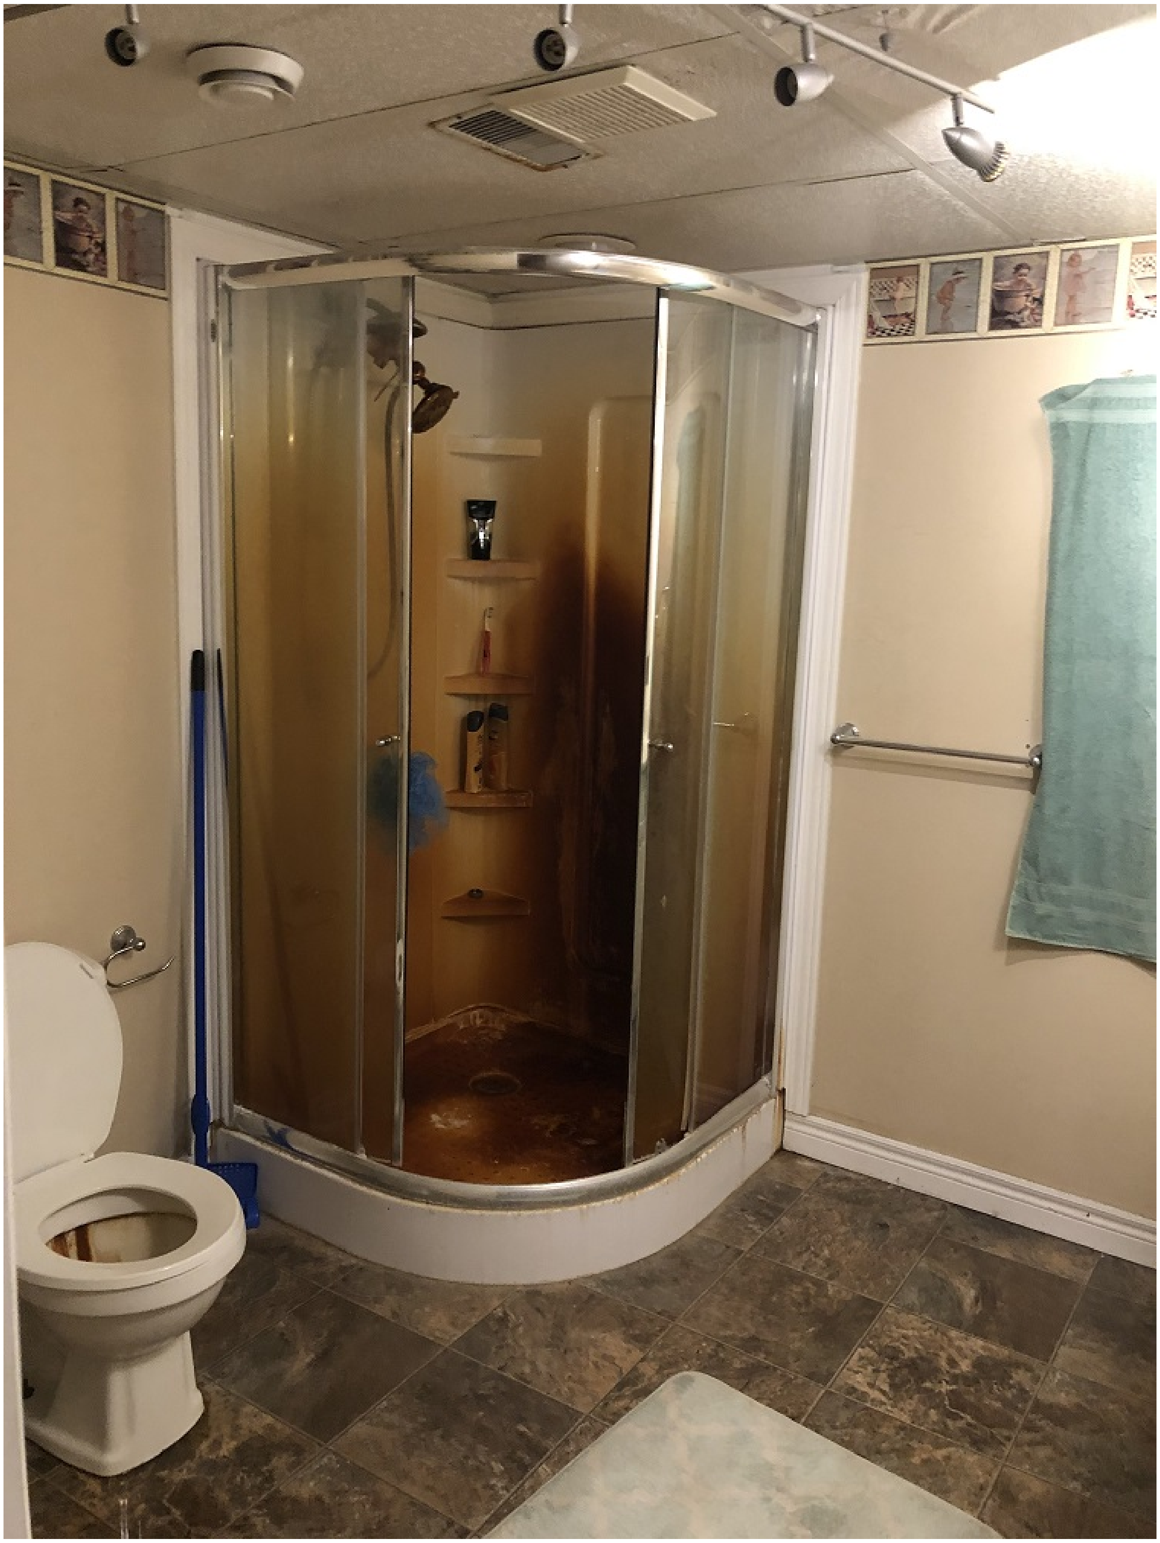
[2021-04-18] Bedroom door damage



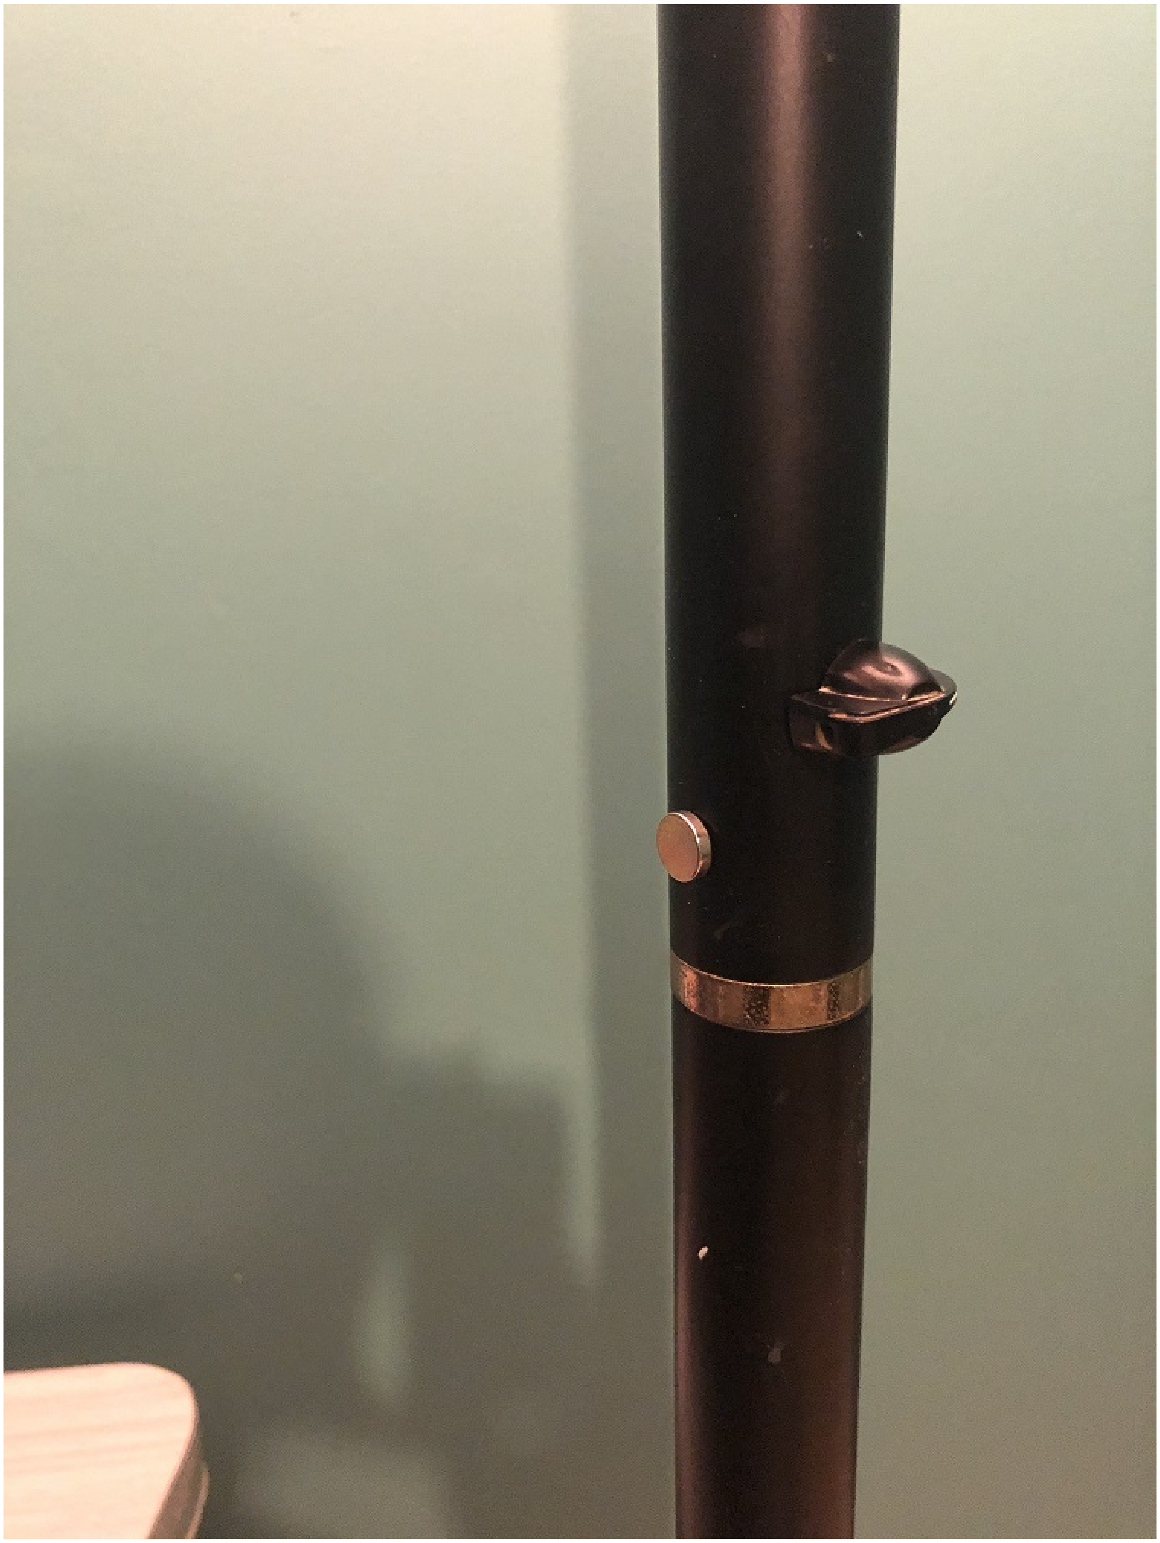
[2021-04-24] Boarded upstairs access after attempted reentry



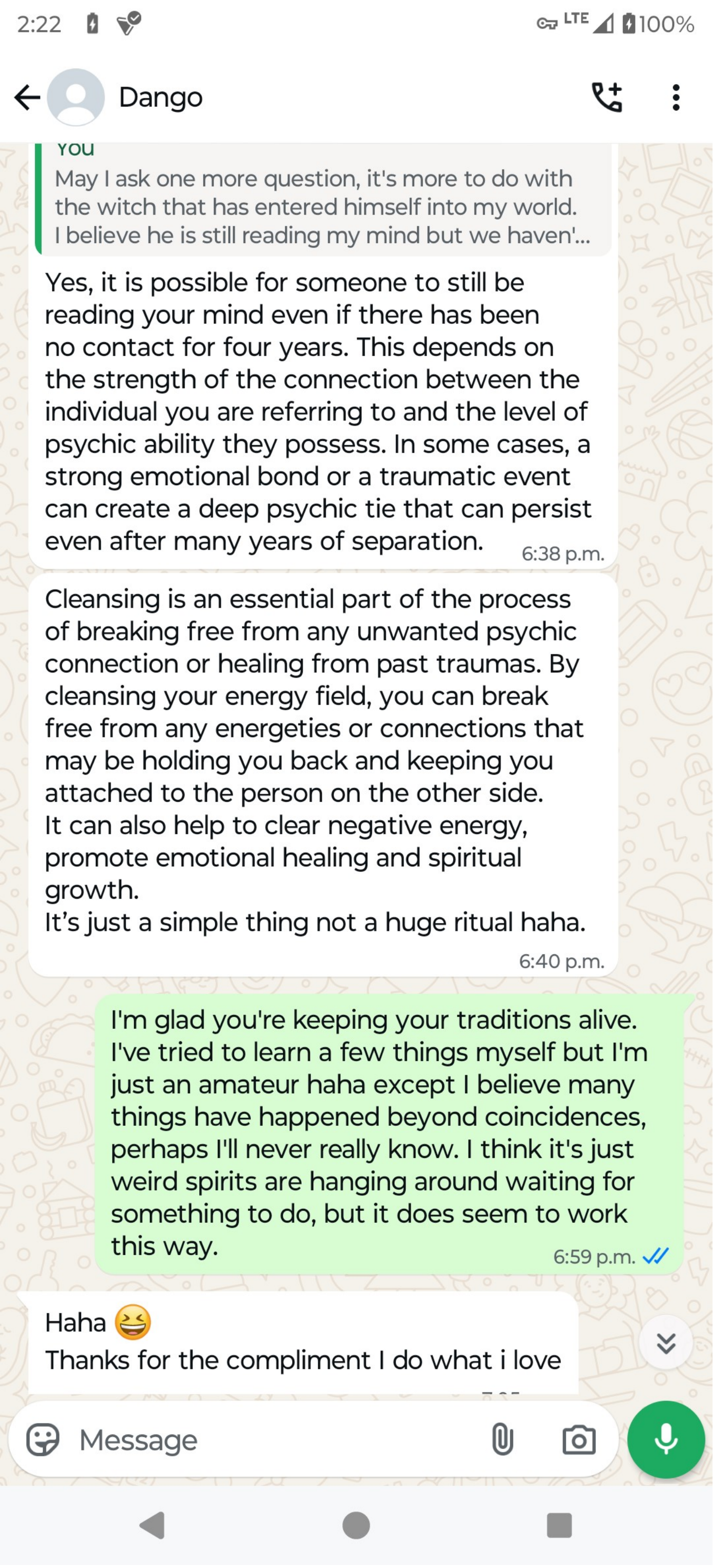
[2021-04-24] Bathroom LED lights replaced and removed



[2021-04-26] Disturbing new evidence on light pole



[2025-05-10] Witchcraft Research in Africa



You

May I ask one more question, it's more to do with the witch that has entered himself into my world. I believe he is still reading my mind but we haven'...

Yes, it is possible for someone to still be reading your mind even if there has been no contact for four years. This depends on the strength of the connection between the individual you are referring to and the level of psychic ability they possess. In some cases, a strong emotional bond or a traumatic event can create a deep psychic tie that can persist even after many years of separation. 6:38 p.m.

Cleansing is an essential part of the process of breaking free from any unwanted psychic connection or healing from past traumas. By cleansing your energy field, you can break free from any energeties or connections that may be holding you back and keeping you attached to the person on the other side.
It can also help to clear negative energy, promote emotional healing and spiritual growth.
It’s just a simple thing not a huge ritual haha.
6:40 p.m.

I'm glad you're keeping your traditions alive. I've tried to learn a few things myself but I'm just an amateur haha except I believe many things have happened beyond coincidences, perhaps I'll never really know. I think it's just weird spirits are hanging around waiting for something to do, but it does seem to work this way. 6:59 p.m. ✓✓

Haha 😆
Thanks for the compliment I do what i love

Appendix C: 51 Cheltenham Road – Listing and Sale

[2021-05-02 | London, ON]

- Evidence: Real estate listing photographs.
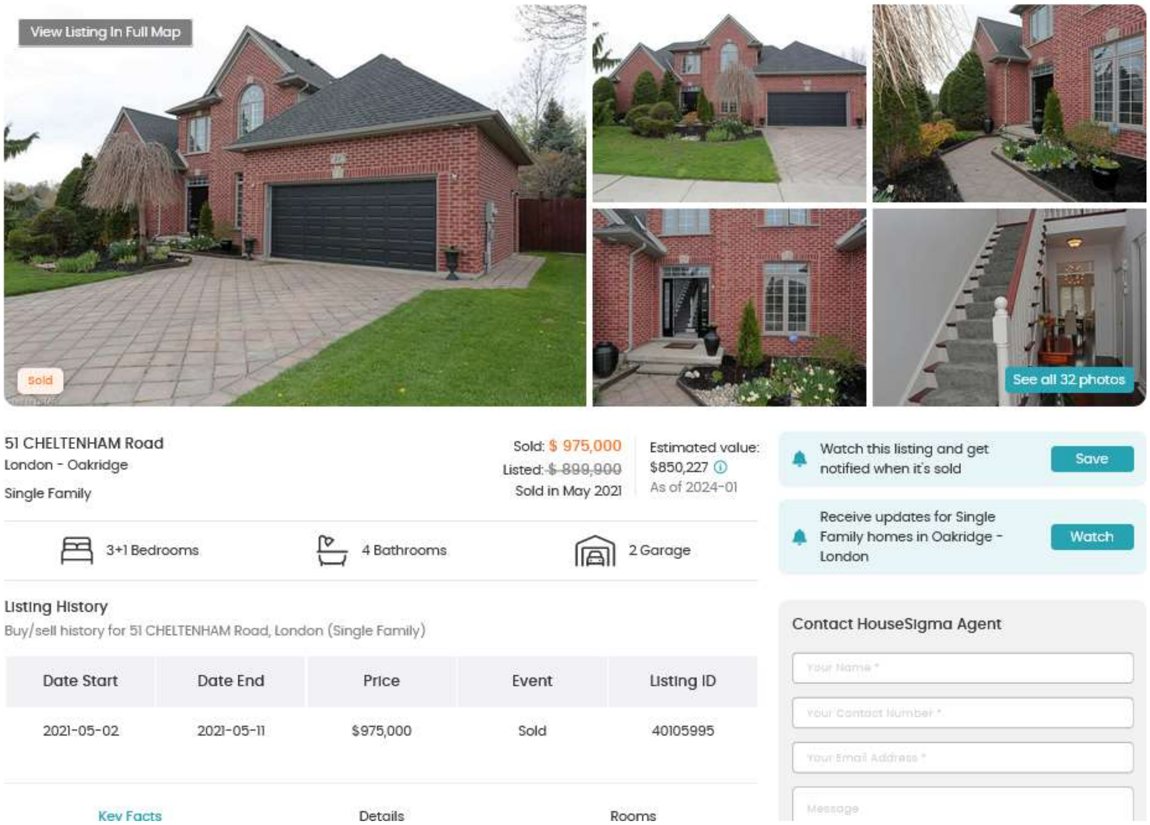
- Description: Photos of the house after Sophie sold the property. Images show significant renovations in the basement.
- Notes: The newly finished basement bedroom no longer contained the smoke detector that had been present when I lived there. That detector had shared a circuit with the bathroom wiring, making it an ideal pathway for surveillance signal transmission.
- Reference: See Chapter 3.6 (Sale of the House and Removed Smoke Detector).



51 CHELTENHAM Road
London - Oakridge
Single Family

Sold: $ 975,000
Listed: ~~$ 899,900~~
Sold in May 2021

Estimated value:
$850,227
As of 2024-01

Watch this listing and get notified when it's sold

Receive updates for Single Family homes in Oakridge - London

3+1 Bedrooms
4 Bathrooms
2 Garage

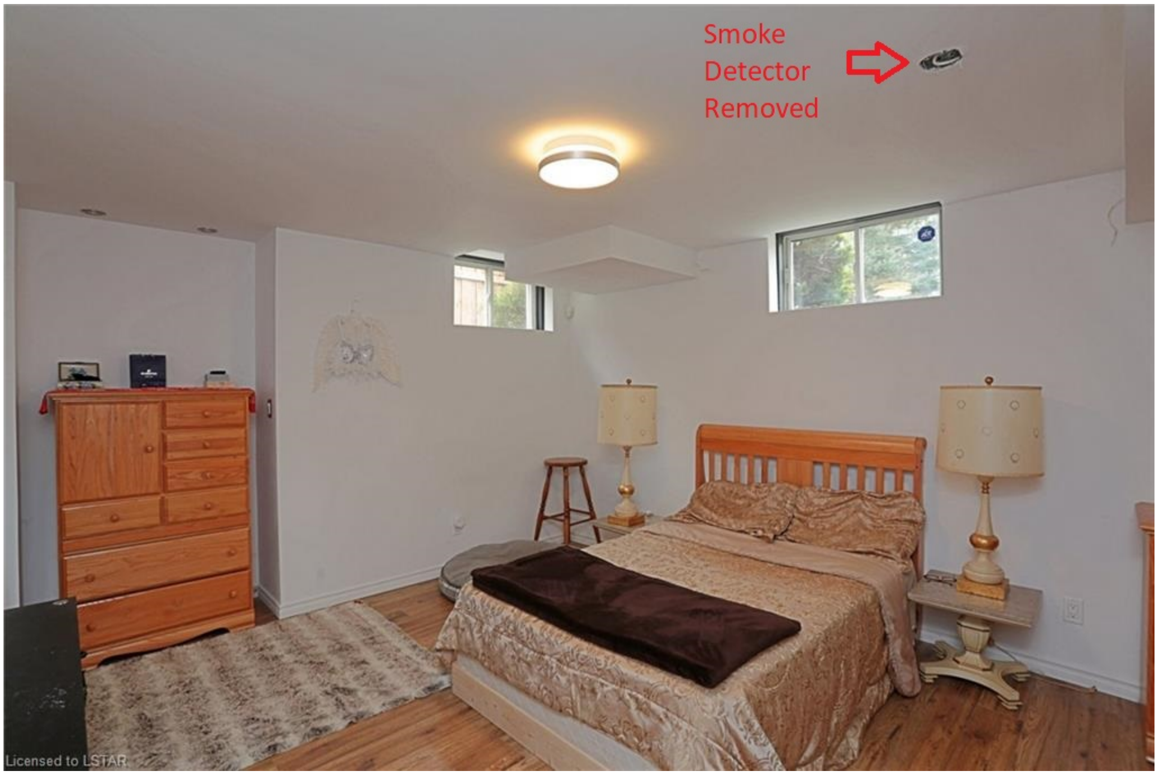
Listing History
Buy/sell history for 51 CHELTENHAM Road, London (Single Family)

Date Start	Date End	Price	Event	Listing ID
2021-05-02	2021-05-11	$975,000	Sold	40105995

Contact HouseSigma Agent

Your Name *
Your Contact Number *
Your Email Address *
Message

Key Facts
Details
Rooms



Smoke
Detector Removed
Licensed to LSTAR

Appendix D: Targeted Individual – Evidence of Stalking and Harassment

[2014-03-20 | Etobicoke, ON]

- Event: Cement poured over car
- Evidence: Photographs – vehicle covered in construction cement (Etobicoke condo, 2085 Islington Ave).
- Description: Vehicle deliberately cemented in during construction within the condominium parking area.
- Notes: No explanation was provided by condo management. The incident appeared staged and consistent with efforts to damage property and intimidate. This was one of the first highly visible harassment events outside London, occurring during a short relocation attempt.
- Reference: See Chapter 4.2 (Etobicoke – Cement).

[2016-08-20 | London, ON / Victoria, BC]

- Event: Online message — "Pigeon Camera"
- Evidence: Screenshot / Tastebuds account entry
- Description: Shortly after watching the Tragically Hip's final concert online with Michelle Westlake, a comment appeared on her Tastebuds profile reading "Pigeon Camera."
- Notes: At the time, I dismissed it as odd, but in hindsight it strongly suggested surveillance at my Rogers Avenue residence. Visitors rarely used the shower, despite it being fully functional. Next door, a group home housed three autistic clients. One of the younger adults often repeated personal details from my life, saying things like "Nicky said this" — making clear he was repeating what staff had told him. It seemed the workers were both aware of private facts about me and deliberately prompting him to repeat them back to me. On one occasion, the boy asked to use my bathroom despite having one at his own residence, further reinforcing my suspicion that he was being directed. Taken together, these events — combined with the "Pigeon Camera" message — suggest a coordinated effort to monitor and unsettle me.
- Reference: See Chapter 4.4 (Victoria, BC).

steadymystic asked a question

Q in celebration of Tragically Hips last concert, one of Canada's great bands, name your top 3 (I couldn't pick just one) Tragically Hip songs.

steadymystic
in no particular order:......1) Ahead by a century, 2) Wheat Kings, 3) Fiddlers Dream
1 Like

steadymystic
Grace too

qburn
1.Pigeon Camera, Nautical D, Twist My Arm and as a bonus Grace Too :-)

steadymystic
All great tunes. :)

qburn
can't go wrong with the hip

steadymystic
Rehab - Ole Friends

[2016-10-10] MILE ‘0’

MILE 'O'
CAA
VICTORIA B.

[2018-05-06 | London, ON]

- Event: Laura Sirie incident
- Evidence: Text message referencing police “not being real.”
- Description: After a confrontation with landlord Laura Sirie, she sent a cryptic text later viewed as prophetic, suggesting manipulation and unreliability of police intervention.
- Notes: Full details of the incident are documented in Chapter 4.5.
- Reference: See Chapter 4.5 (Laura Sirie).

●●●○○ Bell 3G
12:36 AM
100%
Personal Hotspot: 1 Connection
May 6, 2018
8:36 PM
Details

Monday 8:28 PM

No I just went last night

Tuesday 10:07 AM

Are you going to transfer me some rent today please?

Thursday 2:01 PM

Well played ... I knew they weren't real cops SIRIE

Friday 1:53 AM

Can I go home yet?

Can I go home yet?

[2023-08 | Peach Lake, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph – inside outhouse door.
- Description: Message scrawled: "Here we hunt pedophile."
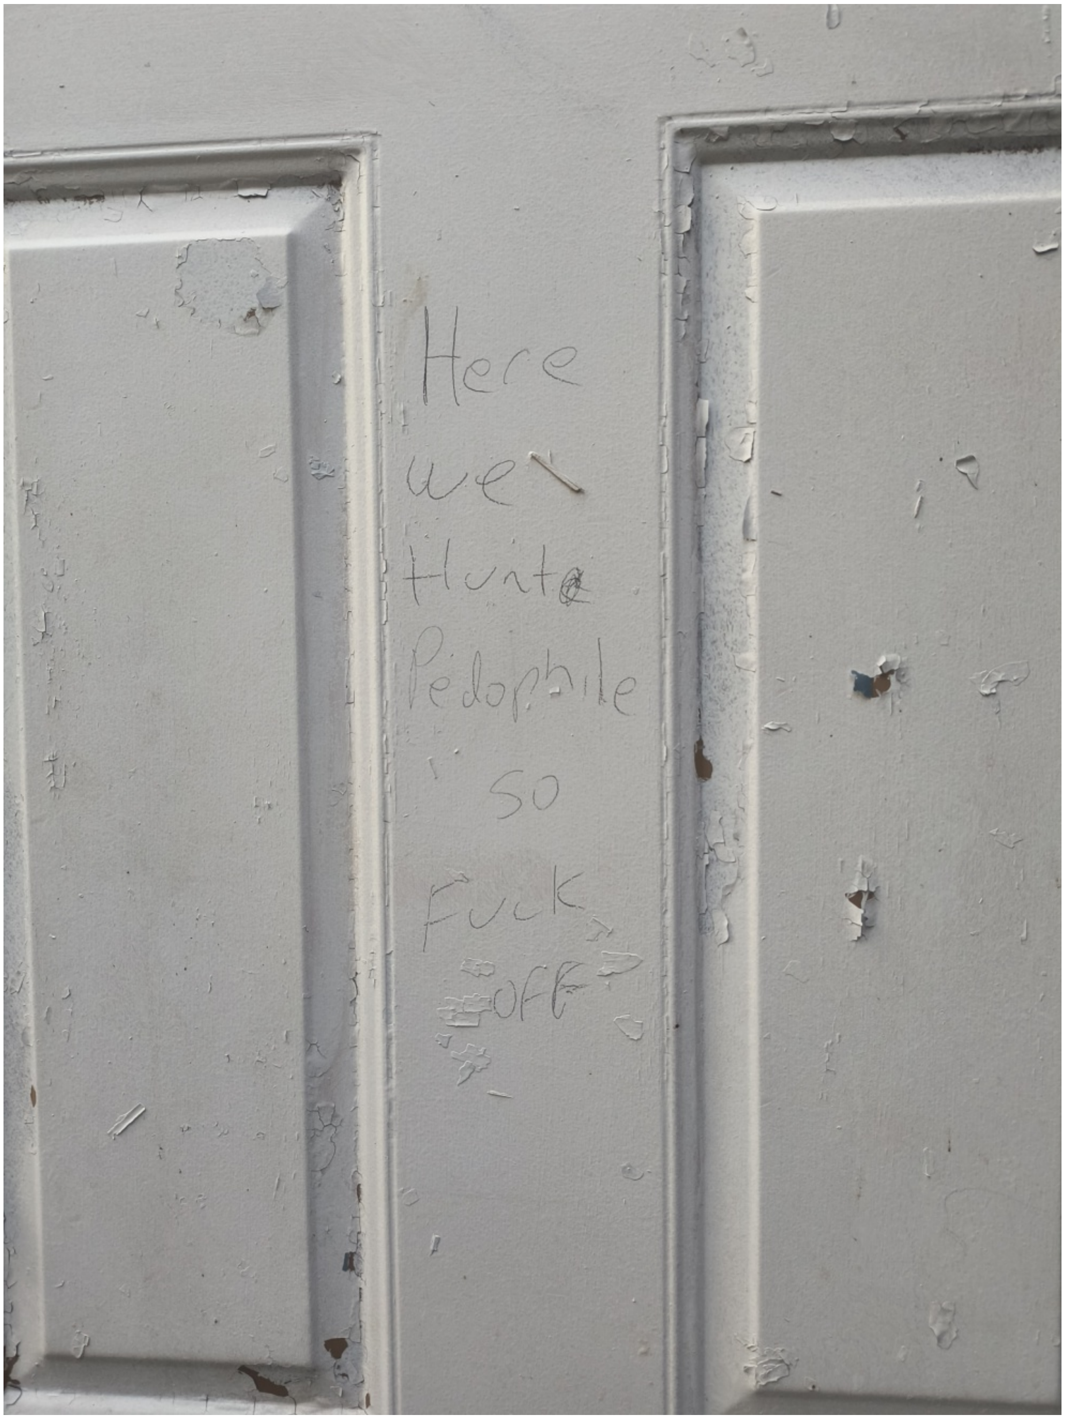
- Notes: Discovered after returning from a supply trip. No other campers had been present all summer, suggesting the message was targeted directly at me.
- Reference: See Chapter 7.2 (Explicit "Here We Hunt Pedophile" Message).



[2023-09-20 | Peach Lake, ON]

- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2023_08_31-to-2023_09_25-peachlake_opp_atv_circling_trees_watershed_mto
- Youtube: https://youtube.com/shorts/b2uYrRprf4s
- Description: Two ATVs likely associated with this trailer, circled my car before firing shotgun blasts into the air.
- Notes: Police response was minimal; they reluctantly accepted a copy of the evidence.
- Reference: See Chapter 7.3 (Intimidating ATV Incident with Shotgun Fire).

taylor coach
ONTARIO
B42 43M

[2023-09-25 | MTO Rest Stop Hwy#144, ON]

- Youtube: https://youtube.com/shorts/ZLalW9uMusw
- Description: Attendant reopens locked washrooms.
- Notes: Police response was minimal; they reluctantly stated they may not be able to retrieve the parking lot video footage.
- Reference: See Chapter 7.4 (Stalking at the MTO Rest Stop).

[2023-09-25 | Peach Lake, ON]

- Evidence: Photograph – campsite road.
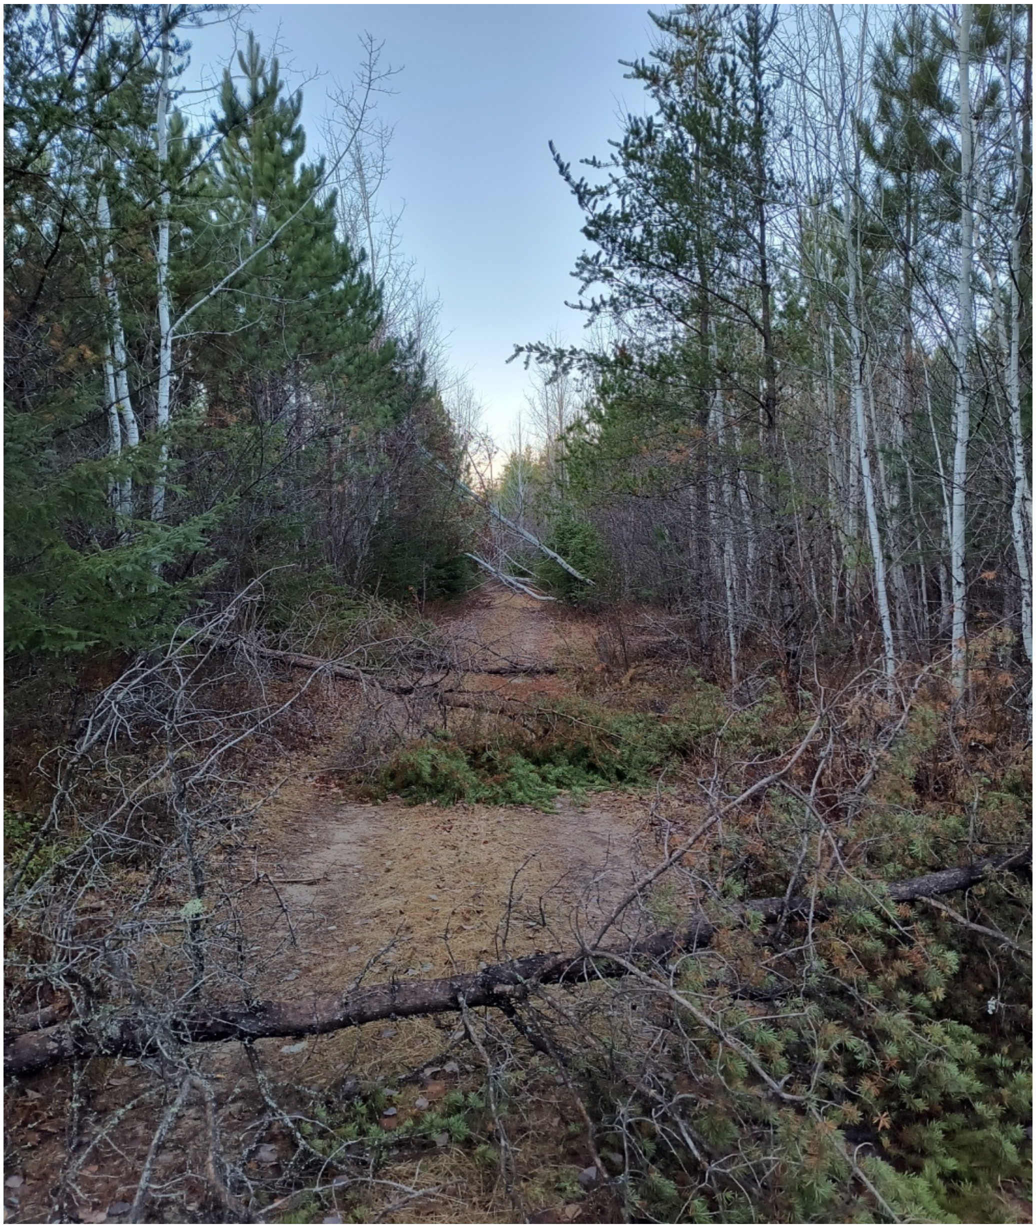
- Description: Trees cut and left blocking access road to campsite.
- Notes: Occurred overnight while I was away. Interpreted as an intimidation tactic. Police were notified but failed to follow up on security footage from nearby rest stop.

- Reference: See Chapter 7.5 (Incident of Trees Being Chain-Sawed Down).



[2025-06-06 | Thessalon, ON]

- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2025-06-06-thessalon-atv-circling
- Youtube: https://youtube.com/shorts/NkCFixD0jGY
- Description: Another circling incident by an ATV, though no gunfire this time.
- Notes: Repeated pattern of intimidation consistent with earlier Peach Lake incident.
- Reference: See Chapter 7.6 (Thessalon ATV Circling Incident).

Appendix E: Law Enforcement - Evidence of Stalking and Harassment

[2021-05-16 | False Call-in - Goderich, ON]

- Evidence: Officer record (OPP: L. Kelly #12471)

LONDON CRISIS
CENTRE

648 HURON ST
LONDON
519 434 9191

L. KELLY
12471

[2021 | False Call-in - Goderich, ON]

- Evidence: Call-in record – snow plough operators

[2021-07-05 | False Call-in - Central Huron, ON]

- Evidence: Offence #1307603X (OPP: J. Kyle #15675)

[2021 | False Call-in - Stratford, ON]

- Evidence: Call-in record

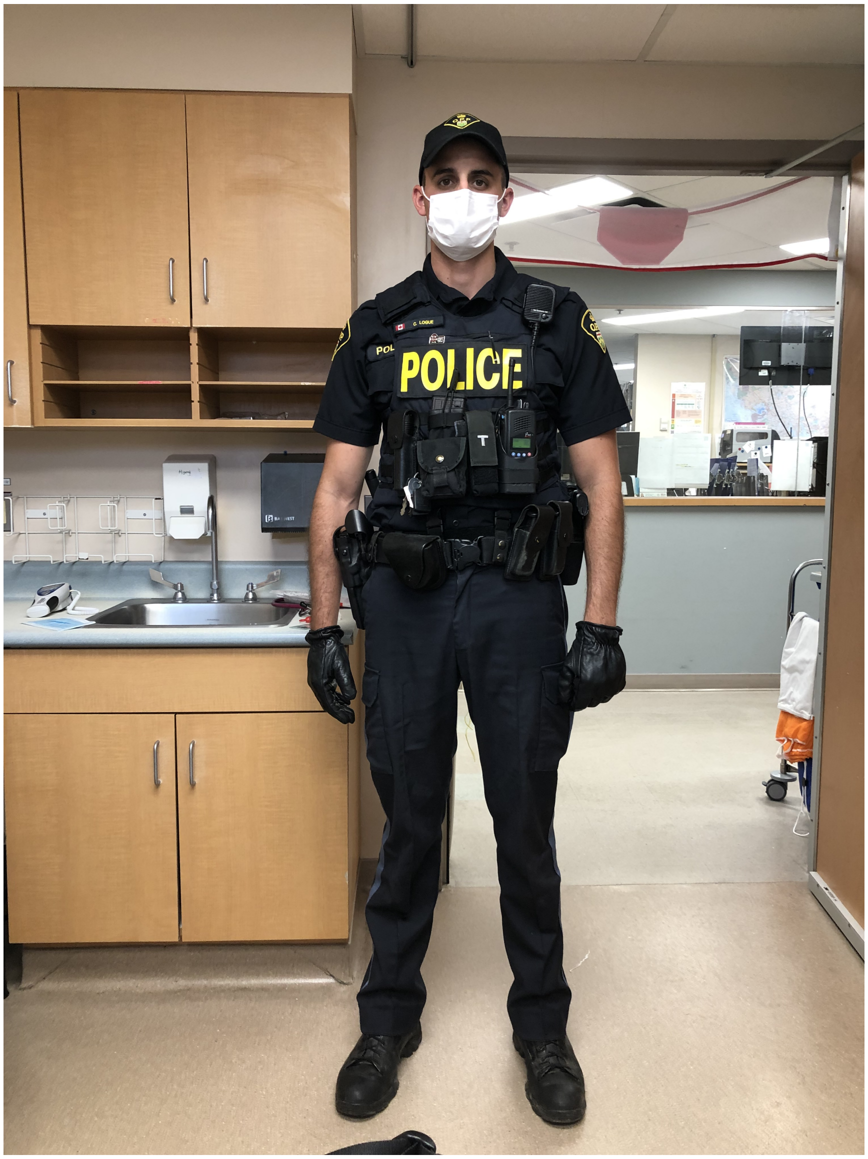
[2021-08-08 | OPP Illegal Detainment - Parry Sound, ON]

- Evidence: Hospital / commitment records; (OPP: C. Logue)



[2021-11-10 | OPP Illegal Intervention - Laundromat]

- Evidence: Video recording (OPP: M. Szusz)
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2021_11_10-laundromat_opp_camera-denial
- Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=R_CYiQE4l3U

Sorry Out of Service
POLICE
POLICE
OPP

[2021-11-17 | OPP Illegal Stop - Blind River, ON]

- Evidence: Video + photos of Hwy #17 conditions (OPP: J. Cambridge #12756)
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2021_11_17-blindriver_opp_slow-driving-warning
- Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=R8JQevm5SQM

[2022-01-25 | OPP Stalking - Watershed, ON]

- Evidence: Occurrence #E220083841 (OPP: G. MacGregor #11793)

[2022-03-02 | False Call-in - Tim Horton's, Hwy 144]

- Evidence: Kal Tire receipt (spare tire use)

[2022-03-20 | Sudbury Police Stalking - Sudbury MR80]

- Evidence: Offence #1114651F (Officer: A. Zelionka #98703)

[2022-09 | OPP Stalking - Constantine Camp (Mark, Mike Sr. Mike Jr.)]

- Evidence: OPP visit record regarding Mike Jr. (OPP: G. MacGregor #11793)

[2022-10-04 | False Call-in - Constantine Camp (Gabe, Gus)]

- Evidence: Audio recording (Conservation Officer: Dave LaLonde #684)

[2023-09-19 | OPP Neglected Evidence - Peach Lake, ON]

- Evidence: Outhouse graffiti (see Chapter 7.2 + Appendix D)
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2023_08_31-to-2023_09_25-peachlake_opp_atv_circling_trees_watershed_mto
- Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Dw6PGEjOqis

[2024-04-05 | RCMP Illegal Random Car Stop - Merritt, BC]

- Evidence: Offence #EA60189509 (RCMP: Julyan #165239)
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2024_04_05-merritt_rcmp_random-car-stop
- Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3yto4BxXwFA

[2024-04-10 | RCMP Road Runner Motel - Merritt, BC]

- Evidence: Video – removal from motel
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2024_04_10-merritt_rcmp_road-runner-motel

[2024-11-25 | OPP Stalking - Arctic Watershed]

- Evidence: Audio complaint; Incident #E241565664
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2024_11_25-arctic-watershed_opp_sleeping
- Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=XuMQg0Lsrxk

[2025-01-12 | OPP Illegal Random Car Stop - Petawawa, ON]

- Evidence: Video recording (OPP: Juch)
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2025_01_12-petawawa_opp_random-stop
- Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=A6ZVH2bD0Fw

[2025-07-09 | False Call-in – Hwy #17 North of Sault Ste Marie, ON]

- Evidence: Video recording; OPP
- Archive: https://archive.org/details/2025_07_09-hwy-17_opp_call-in
- Youtube: https://youtube.com/shorts/5NeffXXDLZQ

Appendix F: Friends and Family – Call for Help

[2021-05-25 | Jack Olson, Battery Incident - London, ON]

- Event: Refusal to help with jump-start at Springbank Park
- Evidence: Text message record

+1 (519) 537-9359

Text Message
Tue, May 25, 4:26 PM

Robbie this is a support line number

519-433-2023

Fuck you you're the creep that needs help

[2022-02-07 | Heather McCort, Medical Supplies - London, ON]

- Event: Difficulty getting help
- Evidence: Text message record

Gmail
heather
Compose
Inbox 1
Starred
Snoozed
Important
Sent
Drafts
Purchases
Social
Updates
Forums
Promotions
More
Labels
Bell
Junk E-mail
Upgrade
3 of 4
Inbox ×
Reply
Forward
R

So sorry I got upset.xoxo

Heather McCort <heatherhassallm@gmail.com>
to me

Mon, Feb 7, 2022, 1:12 PM

Dearest Rob,

I am so sorry that I got upset near the end of our time, seeing one another. (I've put a wee note in the 'goody' bag...xo)

Oh Rob, I wish 'times were different,' that we could have you come and stay for a good visit.... Darn this Covid-19! As you could see, Gary & I are old and we do stay our distance from everyone, even family....

Whatever you decide to do, please stay safe & warm.

I love you VERY much!
Heather
xoxoxoxoxoxo

[2022-02-10 | Mike Rees-Evans - London, ON]

- Event: Visit – remark: “Police must have a good reason to do what they are doing.”
- Evidence: Personal record

Re: Update Addresses - rareeng
mail.google.com/mail/u/4/#search/marie/FMfcgzGlIMHrjzmvWmlPnpKxlkGVPZdK
My IP
IP Loc
Test your IPv6.
DropBox
TV
Music
Maps
Nitrogen
HHR
BTC
Snave Seer - Quora
Help:Your first article -...
Activate Account - Ch...
VMs with side channel...
Gmail
marie
Compose
Inbox
Starred
Snoozed
Important
Sent
Drafts
Purchases
Social
Updates
Forums
Promotions
More
Labels
Bell
Junk E-mail
Upgrade
2 of 10

Marie Carter <pbmcarter1@rogers.com>
to me
Feb 9, 2022, 7:32 PM

You blocked pbmcarter1@rogers.com. Future messages from this sender will be sent to Spam.

Unblock sender   Move to spam

Hi Rob,

Here’s your Dad’s email address: pmreesevans@gmail.com

He is back home now. He said he has a letter addressed to you from the Ministry of Transport. Let him know what you want him to do with it, forward it to you or you pick it up?

Marie xo

Feb 6, 2022, at 4:00 PM, Marie Carter <pbmcarter1@rogers.com> wrote:

> Hi Rob,
> He is away with Sharon and Wayne went to the casino with them, he will be back Wednesday.
> I don’t know he’s new email, was with bell and switched to rogers.
>
> We will be making a trip out there hopefully in a couple of weeks, for the weekend, depending on the weather.
> Hope all is well with you.
> Marie xo
>
> On Feb 6, 2022, at 2:44 PM, Rob <rareengineering@gmail.com> wrote:
>
> > Hi Marie

[2022-12-31 | Marie Carter, False Call-in, ON]

- Event: 911 call-in; family member reported incident
- Evidence: Text messages

iMessage
Dec 26, 2022, 10:13 AM

Hope you are somewhere warm and safe. Still think about you all the time. Reach out for help when you need it.

Dec 31, 2022, 5:05 AM

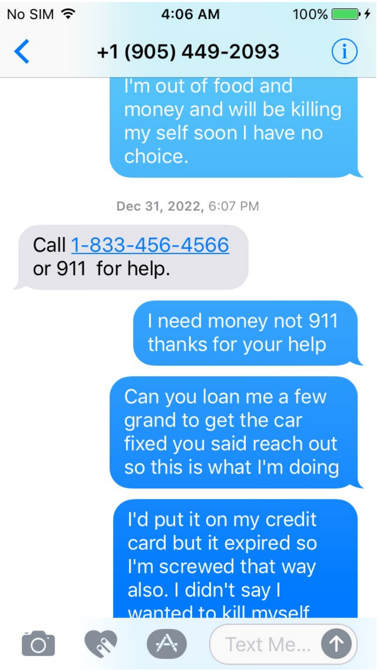
Who is this?

Dec 31, 2022, 12:22 PM

Your cousin Marie.

Dec 31, 2022, 3:30 PM

I'm stranded in the middle of nowhere my transmission just failed I'm out of food and



I'm out of food and money and will be killing my self soon I have no choice.

Dec 31, 2022, 6:07 PM

Call 1-833-456-4566 or 911 for help.

I need money not 911 thanks for your help

Can you loan me a few grand to get the car fixed you said reach out so this is what I'm doing

I'd put it on my credit card but it expired so I'm screwed that way also. I didn't say I wanted to kill myself also. I didn't say I wanted to kill myself your message implied I'm distressed that way, I'm not I'm starting a new biz but I need money help for a while.

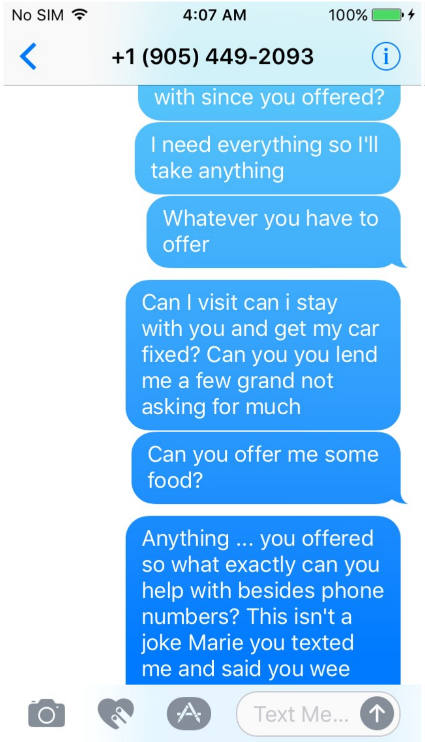
Call your dad.

He hates me

Anyways you offered to help and now you don't want to why did you bother calling I don't need fair weather family like you

Lets it it this... What exactly can you help with since you offered?



with since you offered?

I need everything so I'll take anything

Whatever you have to offer

Can I visit can i stay with you and get my car fixed? Can you you lend me a few grand not asking for much

Can you offer me some food?

Anything ... you offered so what exactly can you help with besides phone numbers? This isn't a joke Marie you texted me and said you wee me and said you wee concerned and offered to help. So please explain exactly how you can help knowing my needs now

Who are you?

Dads is not an option he told me I'm an intruder in his life

Who am I ? I don't understand

Name and address?

Huh?

Marie what's going on?

[2025-02-19 | Mike Rees-Evans - Email]

- Event: Follow-up contact by email
- Evidence: Email message

Re: Mail - Mozilla Thunderbird
File Edit View Go Message Tools Help
Get Messages
Write
Tag
Reply
Forward
Archive
Junk
Delete
More
Done

michael rees-evans
pmreesevans@gmail.com

To Rob <rareengineering@gmail.com>

2/20/2025, 9:19 PM

Re: Mail

Not that I know of.

On Wed, Feb 19, 2025 at 1:17 PM Rob <rareengineering@gmail.com> wrote:

> Hi
>
> Has there been any important mail sent to your address for me? Remember I asked you to open everything. I just found out my tax returns were being audited and I had no idea. Now CRA has withheld my return money because I didn't provide some info they requested. So now I've had to file an appeal and it will take forever before I can get any money that I dearly needed to find shelter from the cold. I just want to make sure you are still at the same address and if you can help in any way.
>
> Rob